The Message

from his Excellency Minister of Education

Dear teachers and students,

As education is the foundation of development, A key element in defining quality, relevance and effectiveness of education is its curriculum. Our new curriculum has been shaped by the desires of our people for an ideal future using the latest advances in education development. Our education system and curricula should provide the type of education that will enable our future generations to build an Islamic society that is moral, modern and prosperous. Through wide-spread consultations, the Ministry of Education has attempted to come up with content, structure, scope and sequence for various curricula that will equip our children and youth with values, knowledge and skills that are essential for assisting the learners to become positive and contributing members of their families and their society. I am confident that the curriculum development teams of the Ministry of Education tried hard to incorporate the latest developments in the science of learning, educational psychology as well as mental, intellectual and emotional development of children, as they developed the new curriculum. It is my honor to assure our students, teachers and their families that the school curriculum is not a means for spreading political ideologies.

I hope this textbook precisely represent our intentions and efforts to offer you the best resource for learning and application. This book is designed to meet the learning needs of the pupils and facilitate active participation of students in learning and teaching processes.

I expect our teachers to apply the active teaching methods to engage all students and carefully follow the Teacher's Guide to facilitate active learning. Teachers are required to provide opportunities for all students to learn by doing; understand through discovery; use imagination, thinking, creativity; and take joy in instructional activities.

I also call on the guardians and parents of the students to take interest in the education of their daughters and sons, participate in school Shuras, and turn learning into a daily family routine. Parents can both give by helping their children with their studies and take by learning from the school curriculum through their children. Raising our future generation is a joint responsibility of the families and the Ministry of Education.

Ministry of Education is committed to a constant improvement of our curriculum; therefore, I welcome parents, scholars, and educationalists to provide us with feedback for improving our curricula, textbooks and other resource materials.

I wholeheartedly appreciate the hard work of the authors, reviewers, editors, composers, designers and other who participated in preparation of this textbook. I am also grateful to the support of the institutions and experts, national and international, and donors for supporting the process and especially printing and distribution of our textbooks.

May Allah bless us all

Farooq Wardak
Minister of Education

Introduction

Rational for Learning English Language

Studying English Language, as a very effective foreign language is crucial and essential for the people of Afghanistan because of many reasons:

- a. It can enable learners to communicate with other people and acquire needed information.
- b. It can help students and scholars to get knowledge about the daily life, culture, religion, politics, science and the technologies developed in English Language, and use the knowledge in the development of their country.
- c. It can help the students and scholars to learn about the contributions of great writers, thinkers, scientists, poets, inventors, statesmen in the progress of the people's of this language.
- d. It can help our statesmen understanding International Law and culture and consequently, improve international relations of Afghanistan with the Nations of the world.
- e. It can help our people to promote their business and strengthen the economy of the country.
- f. It can help our religious scholars to communicate the people of the world, comprehend their culture and the way of life, and accordingly preach them the precious Islamic teachings and values.
Consequently, promote mutual understanding and conviction.

Methods of the Course

“English for Afghanistan” is an English Course for the people of Afghanistan, to meet their needs. The course has been designed to promote English Language Learning through the following methods and techniques:

1. In the course, students are encouraged to talk first about themselves and their environments and then to broaden their horizons.
2. The course develops an awareness of the link between language, religion and culture.
3. The course provides students with the opportunity to acquire English language skills in an enjoyable and challenging role.
4. In the course, there is a consistent focus on learning English in order to develop practical and functional skills in which grammar is carefully controlled.
5. The course provides enough time for students to master and acquire the lexicon and structures which are taught to them.
6. The skills of listening, speaking, reading and writing are developed gradually.
7. Maximum opportunities of interaction are provided for students.
8. Maximum use is made of pair and group activities where students undertake tasks collaboratively.
9. Moreover, revision and recycling are integrated into the course to facilitate more learning skills.
10. This book of the course is consisting of (12) units.

FIRE

AT THE END OF THIS UNIT, STUDENTS WILL BE ABLE TO:

- Discuss/talk about emergency cases.
- read a topic about Kentucky and its meaning.
- give instructions in case of fire.
- know the ways of learning the meaning, spelling, pronouncing and explaining of new words.
- write a letter from notes.

Discussion

A. Look at the telephone numbers on the right. Then answer the questions below.

EMERGENCY NUMBERS
Fire	119
Police	100
Ambulance	102
Traffic accidents	119
MEDICAL Doctor
Hospital
PUBLIC SERVICES
Electricity
Water
Airport

1. Where does this page come from?
2. What is an emergency?
3. Can you give some examples of emergencies?

A. Then, discuss these questions about emergencies in English with your teacher.

1. Who deals with traffic accidents?
2. Who deals with fires?
3. How do fires start?
4. Where is your nearest fire station?
5. What do you know about firemen?

Reading

Fire Fighters

A. Read the following paragraphs silently.

There are different kinds of fires. For example, chemical fires, oil fires, gas fires and electrical fires. Each kind of fire has its own dangers and problems. So, a fireman brigade must know what kind of fire he is fighting. Also, he must be able to operate many different machines in order to fight the different kinds of fires. In addition, he must be able to deal with fires during day or night, in any weather, inside buildings or out in the open.

However, firemen do not only put out fires. They deal with other emergencies, too. For example, they rescue people who are trapped in car accidents, they help if chemicals are accidentally spilled, and they also tour schools to teach children about the dangers of fire.

However, their main job is still fighting fires, and this is perhaps the most exciting thing that they do. Two things are necessary to become a fireman; A. to be at least 17 years old and B. to have elementary school certificate. However, an intermediate or a secondary school certificate is better.

B. Answer the following questions:

1. What does a fire fighter do?
2. What different kinds of fires are there?
3. What are the necessary things to be a fireman?
4. Give the opposite of the above underlined words.

- C. Read the following information about Kabul fire Department after your teacher.

Kabul Fire Department

Fire Fighting is the act of extinguishing destructive fires. A fire fighter fights fires prevent destruction of life property and the environment. Fire fighting is a highly technical profession which requires enough training and education. Kabul fire department is working under the Ministry of Interior Affairs of Islamic Republic of Afghanistan. The department has four fire brigade stations. There are three hundred fire fighters who are working full time in the department day and night.

- Station one is situated in Char Rahi – e – Pashtonistan and has four fire trucks, to serve the people of that area.
- Station two is situated in Khosh – hal Khan area, and has one fire truck to help the residents of this part of the city.
- Station three is located in Khair Khana area and has one fire truck to help the people when their buildings are in fire.
- Station four is located in Pole – Charkhi area and has only one fire truck to assist the people of this area when they are in need.

There are Trauma Ambulances in the department. Each fire brigade station is allocated one trauma ambulance to reach the need of the residents of the area. There is also an Alarm center in each fire brigade station.

The department has a fire college which is located at station one. In this college firefighters are trained for each part of Afghanistan. The training course which is designed for firemen is for one year. They are trained to rescue people, properties and environment when they are in fire.

D. Answer the following questions:

1. How many fire brigades are there in Kabul Fire Department?
2. How many trucks are there in station one?
3. How many Trauma Ambulances are there in each station?
4. How many colleges are there for the training of firemen?
5. How long is the duration of training course for firemen?

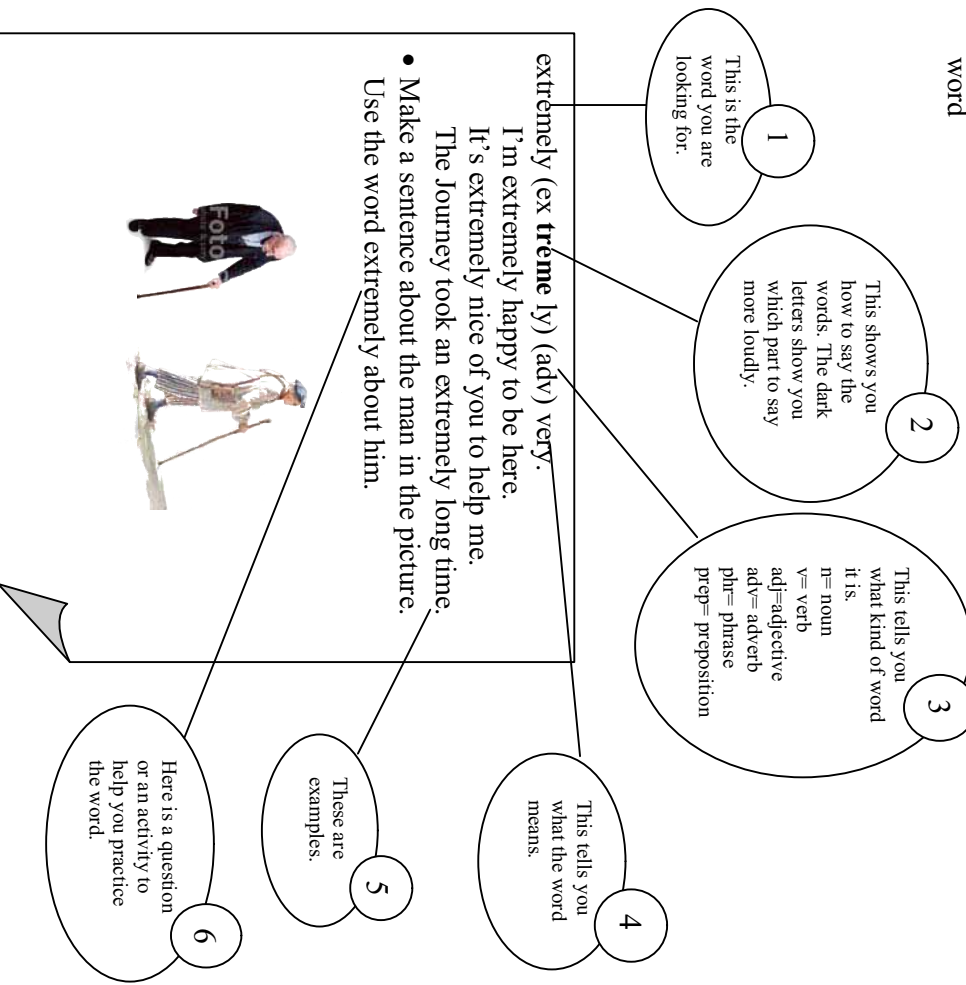

Word Study

Each unit in this course has a “word study”. The word study is like a dictionary in three ways. First, it shows the words in alphabetical order so that you can find them quickly. Second, it tells you how to say them. Third, this tells you what kind of word it is. Finally, it explains the meaning of the word and gives some examples.

However, the word study is different from a dictionary in one way. For many words, it has a short activity or a question to answer.

GIVING INSTRUCTIONS

1

Do you know these?

Cross.

Look at these examples:

Do not cross.

Send a fire engine quickly.
Please hurry.

Don't waste any time.
Don't worry.

Don't smoke.

Don't let the children play with matches.

Keep a fire-extinguisher in the kitchen.
Turn off the TV before you go on sleep.

You can make the sentence in box 1 stronger by using:

- | | | |
|----------------------|----|------------------------------|
| Always | or | Never |
| Always hurry. | | Never waste any time. |

Can you make the other sentences in box 2 stronger?

Make a list of do's and don'ts for safe driving.

Begin the DO'S with Always ... Begin the DON'T'S with Never ...

Look at the following sentences:

If + present, ... future

If you eat too much, you will become fat.
If you drive too fast, the traffic police will stop and fine you.

Now look at this:

If + present, ... instruction

If you want to see a fireman, walk past your local fire station any day of the week.
If the traffic light is red, do not go.

Make instructions with if about the following:

If the radio is too loud,
If you are under 17,
If you want the news,

4

We can also write instructions with if like this:

Instruction + if + present

Walk past your local fire station, if you want to see a fireman.
Do not go or cross if the traffic light is red.

Change the other instruction in box 3 in the same way.
Now, change these instructions so that they begin differently. Follow the examples.

Example 1:

If the traffic light is red, don't cross.
Don't go if the traffic light is red.

Example 2:

Go to fire collage, if you want to be a fireman.
If you want to be a fireman, go to fire collage.

1. If you want to get aware of the news, turn on the radio.
2. Phone 112 if you want an ambulance.
3. If you see a fire, don't waste any time.
4. Call the police if you have accident.
5. If you really want to join the fire service, get a secondary school certificate.

Lesson 5

Writing

Writing from notes

Sometimes students visit interesting places in their local region or people with interesting jobs. They come and talk to other students in the class. The letter below was written by a boy at a High School in Kabul to the commander of a fire station. First, study the letter with your teacher.

The name and address of the person you are writing to	The commander, Central fire station, Phone No: Kabul-Afghanistan	Your name, address and the date
Dear Sir,	Dear Sir, I am a pupil at Naderia High School in Kabul, I and my classmates are learning about fire station and firemen at the moment in our English class. We are interested in visiting a fire station to find out what it is really like. If it is possible to arrange a visit to your fire station for our class? We could come on any weekday at any time. If this is not possible, can somebody from the fire station come to our school and talk to the members of the English department about a day in the life of a fireman at a fire station? I am looking forward to hearing from you. Thank you
Yours faithfully,		Yours faithfully, Sayed Abdullah-Sadaat

Now look at the notes which Sayed Abdullah took before he wrote the letter. See how he made sentences from them.

... pupil ... Naderia High School ... Kabul
 ... about fire station ... English classes.
 ... Interested in visiting a fire station...
 ... arrange a visit ... my class?
 ... any weekday ... any time.
 ... not impossible ... somebody ... talk ... a fireman at a fire station?
 ... looking forward ... Thank you.

Now, use the notes to write in your notebooks a letter to a local hospital.

ASKING QUESTIONS

If you want to know something, you often have to ask a question. To get the information you want, you must ask the right question.

What question do you ask if you want to know these things?

A

- the meaning of a word.
- the spelling of a word.
- how to pronounce a word in a reading.
- which word the teacher is explaining.
- which line (or paragraph, or page) the teacher is on.

B

Practice asking and answering these questions with your teachers.

- What does Mean?
- How do you spell?
- How do you pronounce this word? Or How is this word pronounced?
- Which word are you explaining?
- Which line (or paragraph, or page) are you on?

C

Remember that an unexpected question should begin with:

Excuse me, ...

Example: Excuse me, where is Public Library?

Practice asking the questions in box B again. Begin with Excuse me, ...

UNIT ONE

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FIRES

Part 1

A What should you do before you begin reading?

Before you begin reading a new passage, always take a minute or two to look at it. Do not try to understand everything yet. Just look at the title, the pictures, and the way it is arranged. Try to get a general idea about its subject.

B How else can pictures help you?

There should be some new words in the titles. What do you do when you see a new word? Do you immediately ask your teacher what it means? Do you look for it in a dictionary?

These things take time, and your teacher will not always be with you when you are reading. There are sometimes faster and simpler ways to find out the meaning of a word.

One way is to look at the pictures.

Look at the title What you should know about fires from page 30. Then, look at the pictures beside it.

LESSON 7 & 8

UNIT TWO

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FIRES

A. HOME SAFETY
Create a safer home by taking simple precautions.

BE PREPARED

- Have smoke alarms in every reach of both your bed and the places you sit most often.
- Place emergency phone numbers on or near every phone in your house.
- Buy a fire-kit kit. Keep one in both your home and your car.

AVOID FIRES

- Install smoke alarms throughout the house. Test them periodically to make sure they work. Batteries should be changed at least once a year.
- Place fire extinguishers in the kitchen and other rooms. Make sure you know how to use them.
- Never smoke in bed.
- Turn appliances when they are not in use.
- Run electrical cords along walls, not under rugs.
- Don't overload outlets and extension cords.
- Never store flammable liquids such as cleaning agents and paint supplies near heating places.
- Keep space heaters a safe distance from combustibles. Be sure to follow the manufacturer's guidelines.
- Have more than one exit way from your home. Practice these ways with your family.

32

Now choose the correct explanation to complete the sentences:

1. A smoke alarm is

- A practice for what to do in a fire.
- An instrument which knows when there is a fire.
- A kind of fire extinguisher.

2. A fire drill is

- a practice for what to do in a fire.
- An instrument which knows when there is a fire.
- A kind of fire extinguisher.

When you see a new word, always look at the pictures close to it. Something in the pictures may help you understand it.

Look at page 30 in the passage. There are twelve points below the title Avoid Fires. Each point has words which you do not know.

Look at those short points at the pictures next to them. Now look at the words and pictures below. Write each word under the correct pictures:

1 _____

2 _____

3 _____

4 _____

5 _____

6 _____

7 _____

8 _____ cigarette lighters cigarettes appliances electrical cables worn out electrical cables plugs outlets cylinders

C What else can you do when you see a new word?

Learn about some of the biggest fires. For example, a fire in a restaurant in Kentucky was a big news story in 1977 because it killed 167 persons. A fire is ? Kentucky ?

What does it mean?

What do you do when you see a new word like Kentucky in a reading passage and there is no picture to help you? Do you immediately ask your teacher what it means? Do you look for it in the dictionary? We know that these things take time, and your teacher will not always be with you when you are reading. There are sometimes other quick and simpler ways to know the meaning of a word.

Look at the word Kentucky again. What is special about it? ... That's right; it begins with a capital letter. Now what do you know about Kentucky?

So Kentucky is a name. What kind of name? Is it the name of a person or a place?

Now read the other words that are around the word Kentucky. Do they help you?

Learn about some of the biggest fires. For example, a fire in a restaurant in Kentucky was a big news story in 1977 because it killed 167 persons. A fire is

Do you know what Kentucky means now?

Kentucky is the name of a _____.

When you see a new word, always look at it carefully. Something in it may help you to understand it. Also look at the other words around it. They may tell you what it means.

D Can you guess what these new words mean?

Look at the two words listed below. Find each of them in the passage of page 18. (The line numbers are given here.) Read the other words that are around these words in the passage. They may help you guess the meaning. Then copy each word under the correct picture.

Line 4: crippledLine 9: headlines*E Some new words are like others which you already know.

Look at the two words listed below. Find each of them in the passage on page 18. (The line numbers are given here.) Can you remember another English word like each of these?

Write the word you remember next to each word below:

Line 13: unnecessary _____

Line 16: carelessness _____

What do you think the new words mean?

Discuss them with your classmates and your teacher.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FIRES

INTRODUCTION

Each year approximately 7, 000 people in the United States are killed in fires. In addition, fires injure around 200, 000 Americans. Some of these are burned so badly that they are crippled for the rest of their lives.

If you read the newspaper or watch the television, you will learn about some of the biggest fires. For example, a fire in a restaurant in Kentucky was a big news story in 1997 because it killed 167 persons. A fire in a hotel in Las Vegas in 1980 which killed 84 people also made the news headlines. However, such big fires are rare. Most of the 7, 000 deaths happen in small house fires that never appear in the world news.

Almost all deaths from fires are unnecessary. There are around two and a half million fires in the United States every year. A small number are started by lightning, but almost all the others are caused by carelessness.

Approximately 75, 000 fires every year are caused by children playing with matches. Usually, the children do not intend to start a fire. However, many of the fire which they start burn down buildings and kill people. Adults who are careless with cigarettes also start around 75, 000 fires a year.

There are many other causes of fires in addition to matches and cigarettes. Worn out electrical cables and careless cooking are two other main causes. Of course, some fires are not accidental. People sometimes start them on purpose, this is rare.

UNIT 2

SAFETY in the HOME

AT THE END OF THIS UNIT, STUDENTS WILL BE ABLE TO:

- discuss about first aids
- read a passage about accidents in the home and some other passages about fire..
- learn new words and use them in sentences.
- learn some grammatical points such as: make and reply to suggestion and review that.
- follow writing rules properly.

Discussion

SAFETY IN THE HOME

A. Discuss the following questions with your classmates:

1. What is a first-aid?
 2. What will you do at first when you face an accident?
 3. If there is no water or nonflammable liquid, how you can stop burning?
 4. Which are the most common accidents in the home?
 5. Can you explain ...
 - a. Burns?
 - b. Scalds?
 - c. Electrocution?
 - d. Suffocation?
 - e. Poisoning?
- B. Discuss in English with your teacher these general questions about safety in the home.
1. Think about the kitchen.
What are the special dangers there?
 2. Do the same for the other parts of the house:
The living room, the bedroom, the bathroom, the garage and the garden.
 3. Are the dangers the same for everyone in the family?

Reading

ACCIDENTS IN THE HOME

When most people think of accidents, they think of traffic accidents. However, a large number of accidents happen in the home. For instance, in the United States about 16 million people are hurt every year in their homes. Some of the most common accidents in the home are falls, burns, scalds, electrocution, suffocation and poisoning.

Of course, the dangers are not the same for every member of the family. Very young children and people between the ages of 30 and 64 have the most accidents in the home. Also, different age groups have different kinds of accidents.

Small children are very active and they love experimenting. They put everything into their mouths, so poisoning is a great danger. (For example, some medicines look like sweets to them so they eat them.) They play with everything, too, including sharp things like scissors and knives, so cuts are very common in small children. Most deaths in young children are the result of suffocation. They often put plastic bags over their heads. Then they cannot breathe.

Mothers and fathers often have different kinds of accidents. The greatest dangers for mothers are in the kitchen: burns or scalds from pots on the cooker, cuts from kitchen utensils, from open tins or from broke glass, and electric shocks from unsafe kitchen appliances.

Fathers often make house and car repairs themselves. So falling off ladders, using tools carelessly, and doing difficult electrical repairs are all dangers in the house for men. Also, as they get older, men need to keep fit: there are dangers from eating too much, from smoking and from too little exercise.

Older people develop problems with their sight and their hearing, and they become slower. Falls, burns, accidental overdoses of medicine and accidental gassing are the most common accidents for older people.

When you read this, you might feel that it will be difficult for you to reach old age. However, you can prevent many accidents if you take simple precautions and learn some basic first aid.

True/ False

Are the following sentences true or false? First, find the answer in the reading passage.

Then, write the line number. Finally, write T or F in the box.

- Line 1. Burns are some of the most common accidents in the home.
 Line 2. Very old people have the most accidents in the home.
 Line 3. The largest number of deaths in young children is from cuts.
 Line 4. Fathers are in dangers if they do not keep fit.
 Line 5. One of the most common accidents for older people is poisoning.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FIRES

A. HOME SAFETY

Create a safer home by taking simple precautions.

BE PREPARED

- Have telephones in easy reach of both your bed and the place you sit most often.
- Place emergency phone numbers on or near every phone in your home.
- Buy a first-aid kit. Keep one in both your home and your car.

AVOID FIRES

- Install smoke alarms throughout the house which give you warnings when smoke begins to fill a room. Test them periodically to make sure they work. Batteries should be changed at least once a year.
- Place fire extinguishers in the kitchen and other rooms. Make sure you know how to use them.
- Never smoke in bed.
- Children should not use matches and cigarette lighters.
- Turn appliances when they are not in use.
- Children should not go to near the cooker.
- Run electrical cords along walls, not under rugs.
- Don't overload outlets and extension cords.
- Never store flammable liquids such as cleaning agents and paint supplies near heating places.
- Keep space heaters a safe distance from combustibles. Be sure to follow the manufacturer's guidelines.
- Have more than one exit way from your home.
- Keep gas cylinders into the shade, and do not keep them in hot places. Practice these ways with your family.

PROTECT YOUR HOME AND FAMILY FROM COOKING FIRES

Each year more than 100,000 home fires start in the kitchen, killing hundreds of people and injuring thousands. Most of these fires can be prevented.

Steps to prevent cooking fires:

- ❖ Never leave cooking unattended. Two out of five deaths in home cooking fires occur because the cooking was unattended.
- ❖ Keep cooking area clean- Always wipe appliances and surfaces after cooking to prevent grease buildup.
- ❖ Do not store flammable objects near the stove. Curtains, pot holders, dish towels and food packaging can easily catch fire.
- ❖ Always turn pot handles toward the center of the stove- Turning handles inward can prevent pots from being knocked off the stove or pulled down by small children.
- ❖ Wear short or close-fitting sleeves when cooking- Fires can occur when clothing comes in contact with stovetop burners.
- ❖ Heat cooking oil slowly- Heating oil too quickly can easily start a fire. Never leave hot oil unattended.
- ❖ Teach children safe cooking- Young children should be kept at least 3 feet (1 meter) away from the stove while older family members are cooking. Older children should cook only with permission and under the supervision of an adult.

WHAT TO DO IN A REAL FIRE

What should you do if you wake up at night and realize that there is a fire? Here is some advices from experts:

- Get out of bed and crawl onto the floor. The air is cleanest and coolest there because hot air, smoke and gasses from a fire all rise to the ceiling.
- Shout to warn the rest of the family.
- Crawl to the bedroom door.
- If the door feels hot, do not open it. Crawl to the window and open it. Leave through the window or wait there for the firemen.
- If your bedroom door does not feel hot, open it carefully. If the air is not too hot, crawl to the nearest exit.
- If your clothes catch fire, do not run. Stand still. Then fall to the floor and roll around. That will help put out the flames.
- Meet your family at the meeting place and phone the fire service.
- Never go back into the building for any reason.

Fire Drill

It is a practice of actions or ways to leave a building safely and quickly when it is in fire. You should know what to do when there is a fire. Pretend there is fire in your house, a person is shouting “Fire!” all the family members leave the house according the ways you have decided before.

B. Read and circle your responses to the questions below.

IS YOUR HOME SAFE FROM FIRE?

The answer may surprise you.

Cooking Safety

Yes No Does an adult always stay in the kitchen when food is cooking on the stove?

Yes No Do you keep a proper fitting lid near the stove when you are cooking?

Yes No Are pot handles turned inward so they can't be bumped.

Yes No Are curtains, utensils, paper towels and other things that can burn well away from the stove?

Yes No Is there a "kid-free" zone of one meter around the stove when adults are cooking?

Heating safety

Yes No If space heaters are used in your home, are they at least one meter away from things that can burn, including curtains, furniture and pets?

Yes No Does your fireplace have a sturdy screen to catch sparks?

Yes No Has your chimney been inspected and cleaned during the past year?

Yes No Are propane tanks, gasoline, or other fuels stored safely outside your home?

Smoking, Matches and Lighters

Yes No Are matches and lighters stored out of the reach of children, in a locked cabinet?

Yes No If you smoke, do you have just one lighter or book of matches and keep it with you at all times?

Yes No Are extension cords used safely?

(Are they not under carpets or across doorways?)

Yes No Are kitchen appliance – such as the kettle, coffee-maker, toaster oven and microwave, plugged into separate outlets?

Home Fire Escape Planning

Yes No Are all of the exits in your home clear of furniture, toys and clutter?
Yes No Do you have a home fire escape plan that includes two ways out of every room (if possible)?
Yes No Have you picked a safe place outside where everyone will meet after exiting the home?
Yes No Have you practiced a home fire drill with everyone in your household?

Smoke Alarms

Yes No Does your home have working smoke alarms on each storey and outside all sleeping areas?
Yes No Are the batteries working in all your smoke alarms?
Yes No Do you have a designated person to test the smoke alarms monthly and change the batteries all test once per year?

What's Your Score?

Add up the number of "yes" responses in your checklist. Give yourself one point for each "yes" response.

Our Score: _____

If you answered "yes" to all of the 22 checklist questions above, congratulations! You are a fire safety expert!

If you answered "yes" to at least 15 questions, you're well on your way to a fire safe home.

If you answered "yes" to between 10 and 15 questions, you're on the right track but there is still some work to be done.

If you answered "yes" to fewer than 10 questions, there are some important changes that need to be made around your home to make sure everyone in your home is safe from fire.

C. Revision.

1. Discuss these questions with your teacher:

- What should you do before you begin reading a new passage?
- Make a list of some ways to get the main idea of the subject before reading.
- What should you do when you see a new word in the passage?
- Should you read the passage silently or aloud?

- discuss about the early spread of Islam.
- read a passage about the early spread of Islam/Islam in Afghaistan.
- learn new words and use them in sentences.
- know how to change active into passive/passive into active and review that.
- write a paragraph from notes.

Discussion

THE EARLY SPREAD OF ISLAM

Look at the map and answer these questions:

1. What does the green color on the map mean?
2. In which directions did Islam spread?
3. Can you name some Islamic countries?
4. What is the difference between Hijrah dates (AH) and Gregorian dates (AD)?

Note: The prophet Muhammad (Peace be upon him) and his followers moved permanently from Makah to Madinah in the year which began in 622 AD. That began the first year in the Islamic or Hijrah calendar (AH).

Reading

A. THE EARLY SPREAD OF ISLAM

Since the time that God's (Allah's) words were written down in the Holy Qur'an, the Islamic message of peace has spread all over the world. When the message of Islam was first taken beyond the Arabian Peninsula in peace, the enemies of Islam and their armies tried to stop its spread. As the Muslims advanced to the north, they were met by soldiers of the Roman Empire. In 634 AD, the Muslims captured Damascus from them. Soon afterwards, they took Jerusalem. They finally defeated the Romans in 636. In the east, the Muslims had to fight the Persian army. It took them only twenty-years to introduce Islam there.

From 715 AD, Islam began to spread into Turkey. By 717, it has reached the borders of Europe.

In North Africa, the Muslims had to fight against Roman soldiers again. Again they were successful. By 642 AD, northern Egypt was controlled by the Muslims. The Last Roman army on the continent was defeated near Carthage in 667. Soon, Arabic replaced Latin along the Mediterranean coast to the Atlantic Ocean. The countries that we call Algeria and Al Maghreb Morocco today were joined from 670. From there, the Muslims crossed by sea into Spain in 711. By 714, that country and Portugal were both ruled by the Muslims.

In France, they advanced as far as Tours in 732.

B. True/False

Are the following sentences true or false? First, find the answer in the reading passage. Then, write the line number. Finally, write T or F in the box.

- Line..... 1. AH means Hijrah or Islamic calendar.
- Line..... 2. Islam was taken beyond the Arabian Peninsula in peace.
- Line..... 3. Islam first spread to the north and to the east.
- Line..... 4. Islam spread to Turkey before it spread to Egypt.
- Line..... 5. The Muslims were defeated near Carthage.
- Line..... 6. The Muslims crossed into Spain by land.

ACTIVE AND PASSIVE

We use an active verb to say what the subject does and a passive verb to say what happens to the subject.

Active

After the accident, someone called the police and they arrested the drunk driver.

Passive

After the accident, the police were called and the drunk driver was arrested.

We use object of an active verb as the subject of a passive verb. We can't create passives from intransitive verbs.

We clear the table and wash the dishes.

The table is cleared and the dishes are washed

We swam everyday. Ali came later.

~~NOT Ali was come later.~~

The passive verb has two parts. We use a form of the verb be plus a past participle.

You have to rewrite the first paragraph.

The first paragraph has to be written.

We can use a by-phrase after the passive verb to say who or what causes the action.

My car was repaired by Ahmad.

Some roads are blocked by fallen trees.

ISLAM

The literal meaning of Islam is peace; surrender of one's will i.e. losing oneself for the sake of God and surrendering one's own pleasure for the pleasure of God. The message of Islam was revealed to the Holy Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) 1,400 years ago. It was revealed through angel Gabriel (on whom be peace) and was thus preserved in the Holy Quran. The Holy Quran carries a Divine guarantee of safeguard from interpolation and it claims that it combines the best features of the earlier scriptures.

The prime message of Islam is the Unity of God, that the Creator of the world is One and He alone is worthy of worship and that Muhammad (PBUH) is His Messenger and Servant. The follower of this belief is thus a Muslim. A Muslim's other beliefs are: To believe in God's angels, previously revealed Books of God, all the prophets from Adam to Jesus (peace be on them both), the day of Judgment. Indeed a Muslim believes in all the Decrees of God. A Muslim has five main duties to perform, namely; bearing witness to the Unity of God and Muhammad (PBUH) as His Messenger, observing the prescribed prayer, payment of Zakat, keeping the fasts of Ramadan and performing the pilgrimage to Mecca.

Islam believes that each person is born pure. The Holy Quran tells us that God has given human beings a choice between good and evil and wanted him to seek God's pleasure through performing good deeds; faith, prayer and charity. Islam believes that God created mankind from one male and female and made them tribes and families that they may know each other; surely the most honorable among them with Allah is the one who is the most pious and careful in his duty.

Islam's main message is to worship God and to treat all God's creation with kindness and compassion. Rights of parents in old age, orphans and needy are clearly stated. Women's rights were safeguarded 1,400 years ago when the rest of the world was in total darkness about emancipation. Islamic teachings encompass every imaginable situation and its rules and principles are truly universal and have stood the test of time.

Islam teaches that the path to spiritual development is open to all. Any individual who searches the One Creator can seek nearness to God through sincere and earnest worship; it is central to establishing a relationship with the Almighty. This positive message for humanity fills hearts with hopes and courage.

At present there are 1.5 billion Muslims worldwide and they are from the majority in more than 50 countries of the world.

Today Islam is the fastest growing faith in the world its beautiful message is reaching millions in the far corner of the earth.

Islam in Afghanistan

Approximately 99 percent of Afghans are Muslims, and out of them, 80-85% are Sunni of the Hanafi School; while 15-20% are Shi'a, the majority of whom are Twelver. There is also a strong influence of Sufism among both Sunni and Shi'a communities. There are about 1.5 billion Muslims all over the world and Afghanistan is part of Islamic Ummah.

EARLY HISTORY

At the end of the 7th century, Muslims entered into the area now known as Afghanistan after decisively defeating the Sassanians in Nihawad. Following this colossal defeat, the last Sassanid Emperor, Yazdegerd III, who became a hunted fugitive, fled eastward deep into Central Asia. In pursuing Yazdegerd, the route the Muslims selected to enter the area was from north-eastern Iran, and thereafter into Herat where they stationed a large portion of their army before advancing toward eastern Afghanistan.

Almost every Afghan has at one time during his youth studied at a mosque school; for many this is the only formal education they receive. Because Islam is a total way of life and functions as a comprehensive code of social behavior regulating all human relationships, individual and family status depends on the proper observance of the society's value system based on concepts defined in Islam.

Historically, Afghanistan has been ruling by Islamic Shariah and local customary laws since Islam entered this land. So far the people of Afghanistan did not experience any foreign man made imported laws.

TODAY

Islam is a central, pervasive influence throughout Afghan society; religious observances punctuate the rhythm of each day and season. In addition to central Friday mosques for weekly communal prayers which are not obligatory but generally attended, smaller community-maintained mosques stand at the center of villages, as well as in all corners of Afghan society and nation.

UNIT 4

FOOD WE EAT THE WHEAT

AT THE END OF THIS UNIT, STUDENTS WILL BE ABLE TO:

- discuss about the food which they eat.
- read passages about food for energy and healthy eating.
- know the new words and use them in sentences.
- use which, who and that as a subject and review some grammatical points.
- write paragraphs from notes.

DiscussionTHE FOOD WHICH WE EAT

- Which of these meals would you choose?

AB

- Why did you choose A or B?
- Which meal do you think is more balanced?
- Which meal do you think is healthier?
- Is any of the food here bad for you? Why?
- What kinds of food do our bodies need?
- What do you think junk food means?
- Can you think of any examples of junk food?

Vocabulary practice

Complete each sentence with the correct word(s) from the box.

- We find old, broken cars in a _____.

Lesson 2

UNIT FOUR

FOOD FOR ENERGY

Reading

Fuel for the Human Machine

The human body is like a machine that is moving and working all the time. All machines need fuel to give them energy. The fuel for the human body is food and most of the energy comes from two substances in our food: carbohydrates and fats. Carbohydrates are found in food like potatoes, bread, cereals (rice, wheat, corn, etc.) and sugar. Fats come from food like cheese, butter, oil and meat.

Calories

Energy in food is measured in calories. For example, an apple has about 40 calories, an egg has about 80, a fresh date has 15, and a tomato has around 12.

Too Many calories

You need about 40 calories a day for each kilo that you weigh. So if you weigh 60 kilos, you will need about 2,400 calories per day. If a person eats more calories than he needs, his body stores the extra calories as fat. A person who gets all the calories he needs in his meals but in addition drinks only one tin of soft drink a day may gain five kilos per year.

Food like this gives us carbohydrates.

Fats

Food like oil, butter and meat supplies fats.

Compare the number of calories in an apple with the number of calories in a tin of soft drink.

Unfortunately, food which contains carbohydrates is usually cheaper than other food and it is often convenient and attractive. All "junk food" contains lots of carbohydrates and fats. If your diet contains a lot of junk food, you will probably get fat which may cause a lot of disease.

TAKING OUT WHICH, WHO AND THAT

Which, who and that as subjects

Do you remember these sentences?

There are several courses which are going on here at the same time.
Those are the trainees who study in the building.

In these sentences, which, and who are subjects:

Which S Who	are going on V study	here at the same time in this building
-------------------	----------------------------	---

We can take out which and who if we change the verbs.
They become v+ ing: (The same is true for that)

There are several courses going on here at the same time.
Those are the trainees studying in this building.

Which, who and that as objects

Now look at these sentences?

Cereals are a family of plants which we use for food.
You need about 40 calories a day for each kilo that you weigh.

In these sentences, which and who are objects:

Which O that	we S you	use for food weigh
--------------------	----------------	-----------------------

We can take out which and that.
We do not need to make any other changes: (The same is true for who.)

Cereals are a family of grains we use for food.
You need about 40 calories a day for each kilo you weigh.

Grammar

Remember:
When which, who and that are subjects, like this:

Those are the trainees who study in this building.

that study in this building.

We can shorten them like this:

Those are the trainees studying in this building.

In these three examples from your book, who and which are subjects.

Shorten them the same way.

1. A person who gets all the calories he needs but in addition ...
2. Food which contains carbohydrates is usually cheaper than other food.
3. ... in the year which began on 16 July 622 AD.

Remember:
When which, who and that are objects, like this:

Cereals are a family of plants which we use for food.
that we use for food.

We can shorten them like this:

Cereals are a family of plants we use for food.

In these three sentences, that is an object. Shorten them the same way.

1. The book that I borrowed from Tariq has been very useful.
2. Since the time that God's (Allah's) words were written down in the holy Quran, Islam has spread all over the world.
3. The food that we eat is very important.

In these six sentences, which, who and that are either subjects or objects.

First, decide if they are subjects or objects. Then shorten them correctly.

1. The human body is like a machine that is moving and working all the time.
2. The part of the plant which we use for food is called grain.
3. Food which contains carbohydrates is usually cheaper than the other food.
4. The first town which the Muslims captured was Damascus.
5. The man who I saw was our teacher.

Writing

WRITING FROM NOTES

1. Look at these sentences about carbohydrates and fats.

Carbohydrates and Fats
Most of the energy for the human body comes from two substances in our food: carbohydrates and fats, cereals (rice, wheat, corn, etc.) and sugar. Fats come from food like cheese, butter, oil and meat.

2. It is possible that this paragraph was written from notes like these:

Carbohydrates and Fats
Energy ... two substances
Carbohydrates ... fats
Potatoes, breads, cereals (rice, wheat, corn, etc.) sugar
Cheese, butter, oil, meat

4. Read these notes about proteins and minerals. Then write a paragraph in your notebook.

repair work and strengthening... two substances proteins Minerals

lean meat, fish, chicken, milk, cheese, eggs milk, lean meat, green vegetables, cereals

1

Taking out which, who and that

A

When they are subjects, for example:

Those are the trainees who study in this building.

We take them out and change the verb to v + ing:

Those are the trainees studying in this building.

B

When they are objects, for example:

Cereals are a family of grains which we use for food.

We take them out and make no other changes:

Cereals are a family of grains we use for food.

If + present, ... present

A

Do you remember these?

If + present ... future

If you eat too much, you will become fat.

If you drive too fast, the police will stop you.

Here are some more sentences like these:

If you weigh 60 kilos, you will need about 2,400 calories a day.

If a person eats more than he needs, his body will store the extra energy as fat.

B

Now here is something new. Look at this sentence:

If + present ... present

If a person eats more than he needs, his body stores the extra energy as fat.

If the result is always true, we can use the present tense instead of the future.

Here is another example:

If you boil water, it becomes steam.

Lesson 6

UNIT FOUR

Revision

Look at these sentences:

If you boil water, it will become steam. = If you boil water, it becomes steam.

Remember:

In sentences like these, if the result is always true, we can use the present tense instead of the future.

Write the following six sentences again.

First, decide if the result is always true or if the result can be different.

If the result is always true, change the future to the present.

If the result can be different, copy the sentence without any changes.

1. If you heat ice, it will become water.
2. If you throw something into the air, it will fall down.
3. If the weather becomes worse, their plane will not be able to land.
4. If Waleed passes his school leaving exam, his father will give him a car.
5. If it rains today, we will go on a picnic.
6. If you give him a lot of money, he will take the job.

You won't need a dictionary for these words.

Healthy Eating

These new words are from Healthy Eating (pages 62, 63). Look carefully at each one and read the words around it. Then chose the correct definition to show you have understood the word.

Healthy Eating

A Balanced Diet

To grow, to be healthy and to stay alive, everyone needs to eat. However, we cannot eat only one kind of food. We need a mixture of different food to keep us healthy and to give us energy. The correct mixture of food is called a balanced diet.

What kind of food do we need for a balanced diet?

Our bodies need food which gives us five special substances. These substances (called nutrients) are proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals and vitamins.

Proteins are needed by our bodies to grow and become stronger. Lean meat, fish, chicken, milk, cheese, and eggs are examples of food containing a lot of proteins.

Carbohydrates supply most of our bodies' energy. Carbohydrates are found in potatoes, bread, cereals (rice, wheat, corn, etc.) and sugar.

Fats also supply our bodies with energy. Fats come from cheese, butter, oil and meat.

Minerals in our diet strengthen our bones and teeth. We get a lot of minerals from milk, lean meat, green vegetables and cereals.

Vitamins are needed to keep our bodies working well. If you eat enough protein, carbohydrates, fats and minerals, plus fresh fruit and vegetables, then you will also get all the vitamins you need.

What will happen if we do not have enough of these substances in our diet?

There are diseases which are called deficiency diseases. These are caused by not getting enough of one or another kind of food. For example, a protein deficiency will have a bad effect on our muscles, skin and hair. If we do not get enough carbohydrates and fats, we will not have the energy which our bodies need to move, grow, repair them and keep warm.

Minerals are very important in our diet. The quantity of any one mineral in our bodies is small. However, if we do not get that small amount, we will become sick. One important mineral for strengthening our bones and teeth is calcium.

Milk supplies a lot of calcium. Another important mineral is iron. Iron is needed for our blood. We get iron from meat and from some fruits and vegetables.

Vitamins, too, are only needed in small quantities. However, they are also important. Hundreds of years ago, sailors often became sick with a disease called scurvy. It made them weak and their teeth fell out. It was caused by a deficiency of vitamin C. Vitamin C is found in oranges, lemons and limes.

Fresh fruit was not part of the sailor's diet. As soon as they began to drink lime juice, their scurvy disappeared.

Is there any food which gives us everything which we need?

Yes, several kinds of food give us all, or most of the nutrients which we need. It may surprise you to learn that two kinds of food dates and milk are full of nutrients. Read these articles about dates and milk and find out how full of nutrients they are.

Dates

It's surprising how many nutrients dates contain!

The prophet Muhammad (PBUH) always broke his fast during the holy month of Ramadan by eating some dates at the call for the Maghreb prayer in the Holy Mosque in Makkah and in the Prophet's Mosque in Madinah, large quantities of dates are supplied on all the days of Ramadan.

As an example of their importance, dates and date palm trees are mentioned in the Holy Quran 20 times.

In the early years of Islam, Muslim soldiers carried dates in special bags at their sides. Dates were thought to be very good for the muscles and the perfect food for a soldier who was going into battle.

Modern science has proved that dates contain a lot of vitamins as well as sugar, fat and protein. They are also rich in the minerals, calcium, sulphur, iron, potassium, phosphorus, copper and magnesium.

Scientists say that a person who lives on a diet of only dates and milk will be completely healthy and will have no deficiency diseases.

MILK

Milk is essentially an emulsion of fat and protein in water, along with dissolved sugar (carbohydrate), minerals and vitamins. These constituents are present in the milk of all mammals, though their proportions differ from one species to another and within species. The milk of each species seems to be a complete food for its own young for a considerable time after birth.

Milk protein is of high nutritional value because it contains all the essential amino acids – i.e., those which infant cannot synthesize in the necessary quantities. Milk's mineral content includes calcium and phosphorus in quantities sufficient for normal skeletal development, but little iron. Milk contains B vitamins as well as small amounts of vitamins C and D. commercial cow's milk is commonly enriched with vitamins D and A before sale.

Now answer these questions about the passage:

1. What is a "balanced diet"?
2. Name five special substances which our bodies need.
3. Which two kinds of food give us all the nutrients which we need?
4. Look again at the five "special substances" which you listed in question 2. How many of them are supplied by dates.

D Now choose the correct explanation.

- Having a balanced diet means eating ...
 - The same amount of every food
 - Only fruit and vegetable
 - A correct mixture of food
 - Three meals everyday
- Vitamins are a kind of ...
 - Nutrients
 - Vegetable
 - Disease
 - Deficiency
- Cheese contains mostly ...
 - Carbohydrates
 - Magnesium
 - Sugar
 - Proteins and fats
- Lean meat contains ...
 - Only one nutrient
 - More than one nutrient
 - All the nutrients
 - No nutrients
- Which nutrients are good for your bones and teeth?
 - Carbohydrates
 - Fats
 - Minerals
 - Protein
- Which nutrients give you energy?
 - Fats and carbohydrates
 - Proteins and vitamins
 - Minerals and vitamins
 - Proteins and fats
- Which one of these is not a mineral?
 - Iron
 - Vitamins C
 - Calcium
 - Copper
- Hundreds of years ago, sailors became sick with scurvy because ...
 - Their teeth fell out.
 - They didn't eat enough fats.
 - They needed more calcium.
 - They had no fresh fruit in their diets.
- Hundreds of years ago, dates were thought to be a very good food for ...
 - Soldiers
 - Sailors.
 - Scientists.
 - Merchants.
- Proteins are needed by our bodies to grow and become ...
 - Weak
 - Powerful
 - Stronger
 - Full of energy
- Fats come from ...
 - Cheese, butter, oil and meat
 - Bread, cereals and sugar
 - Fish
 - Chicken
- Energy in food is measured in ...

Reading

A. Read the following article after your teacher.

Different Life Styles

Hamid is Khalid's grandfather. They love each other very much but their lives are very different. Hamid used to be a farmer but he is retired now. He has lived his whole life in the same village. As a boy, Hamid used to look after his father's sheep. The family rarely went away from home. When they did, they traveled on horses. They lived in a house made of mud, wood and chopped straw. They fetched water from a well, which supplied the whole village.

Cooking was done on an open fire, and lighting was provided by oil lamps. Hamid never had any formal schooling. He learned to farm by observing and copying his father. When someone was sick, his mother used to make remedies from plants and trees that grew in the area. The evening entertainment was to sit and listen to stories told by the older members of the family. These had hardly changed for centuries.

Hamid's grandson, Khalid, has just bought a farm in a neighboring district. It was not there in Hamid's youth.

The circular fields have been made out of desert through the use of modern machinery and technology. Khalid, a graduate of the agricultural college, drives to the farm everyday in his car along forty kilometers of a brand-new, three-lane highway. The car has air-conditioning and heating, just like his modern house. This is a spacious, Modern-style town house that Khalid has moved into with his family. The water is on tap inside the house. Electricity is used for cooking and lighting. The children go to the government school. They all want to do different kinds of jobs when they grow up. The schooling is free all over the country. In the evening, the family can listen to the radio or watch the latest programs on television.

Between Hamid's and Khalid's generation there has been a big change in people's life styles.

Do you remember these sentences from the reading passage?

- a. Hamid used to be a farmer but he is retired now.
- b. Hamid used to look after his father's sheep.
- c. His mother used to make remedies.

We use used to when something happened quite a long time ago in the past ...

Either: a. for quite a long time

Or: b. again and again

2

Now change these sentences. Use used to instead of the past tense.

- a. Everyone listened to stories.
- b. We lived in a traditional house.
- c. A well supplied the whole village.
- d. I traveled on horses as a boy.
- e. It was a desert in Hamid's youth.

3

Do not use used to in a question or a negative. Use the past tense. Look at this conversation:

- A: "Salem used to eat a lot when he was younger."
 B: "What did he eat? Did he eat good food?"
 C: "No, he didn't eat good food. He used to eat junk food."

Now say more conversation like that about Fahim. Use these.

1. A: read
- B: books
- C: newspapers

2. A: play
- B: football
- C: tennis

3. A: travel
- B: to Asia
- C: to Europe

Grammar

4

Look at this sentence, which is in the past:
Hamid lived in a traditional house as a youth.
We can write this sentence again with used to:

Hamid used to live in a traditional house as a youth.

Now look at this sentence, which is also in the past:

Hamid went to Farah last week. x

We cannot write this sentence again with used to. If you do not understand why it is not possible, read part 1 of passage again before you write the next exercise.

Write the following sentences in your notebook with used to if it is possible.

1. Hamid was a farmer but he is retired now.
2. As a youth, Hamid often observed his father.
3. Hamid's mother fetched water from a well.
4. Hamid retired last year.
5. Hamid was here on Monday.
6. Khalid moved to his new house recently.
7. Khalid was a student at an agricultural college.
8. Before he moved to his new house Khalid had lived in a traditional house.
9. When they were young, the children listened to stories from their mother.
10. The family had traveled on foot before they got a car.

Writing

Writing from Notes

1. In the reading a passage, the first paragraph tells you about Hamid's youth. Read the paragraph again and make notes with your teacher. Your list may begin like this:

Hamid's Youth

Lived in a village

Looked after father's sheep

Rarely travelled

2. Think of someone in your family who is about Hamid's age. Ask questions to find out about ...

Here are some suggestions:

his occupation as a child what ... do when ... ?

His travel as a child where ... go when ... ?

His family house what kind of ...? Where ... ?

Getting water where ... from? How ... ?

Cooking what ... on?

Lighting how ... see at night?

Schooling did ... ?

Learning his job how ... ?

3. Ask someone about his youth. Then, write the information in a paragraph. Remember underline your title. Use (used to).

Revision

THE PAST PERFECT

had+ past participle (e.g., had written)

Do you remember this sentence from the reading passage of unit three?
By 717 AD, Islam had reached the borders of Europe.

The past perfect here shows that the action happened BEFORE 717 AD.

On a long time line it looks like this:

Islam had reached ... 717 AD (now)

You can change the order of the sentence without changing its meaning:
Islam had reached the borders of Europe by 717 AD.

Look at this time line:

Now read the five sentences below and divide them into two parts.

B

Example: Hamid had been a farmer before he retired.

You say: A is he retired.

B is Hamid had been a farmer.

1. Hamid had often looked after his father's sheep before he became a farmer.
2. Before Khalid bought a car, he had gone everywhere on foot.
3. Before they moved to a modern house, they had lived in a traditional one.
4. They had to fetch water from the well before they got it on tap.
5. They had used oil lamps before they got electricity.

Agriculture of

The main source of income in the country is agriculture. During its good raining years, Afghanistan used to produce enough food and food products which were sufficient for the people, as well as to create a surplus for export, but due to continual drought in the country, agriculture production has been affected badly. The major food crops produced are: corn, rice, barley, wheat, vegetables, fruits and nuts. In Afghanistan, industry is also based on agriculture, and pastoral farming. The major industrial crops are: cotton, tobacco, madder, castor beans, and sugar beets.

Traditionally, as much as 85 percent of the population drew its livelihood from a rural economy, mostly as farmers. The main part of business and transportation in country also related to agriculture and transport of agricultural materials. Therefore, we can say briefly that developing of the economy of Afghanistan is related to proper using of agricultural resources and for a long time majority of residence of the country can secure their lives by production of agriculture.

Animal husbandry produces meat and dairy products for local consumption; skins, especially those of the famous karakul, and wool (both for export and for domestic carpet weaving) are also important products. Livestock includes sheep, cattle, goats, donkeys, horses, camels, buffalo and mules. About two – thirds of the annual milk production is from cows, the rest from sheep and goats. In addition to the country's many other difficulties, a drought in 2000 killed off some four – fifth of the livestock in southern Afghanistan and crippled the remaining food production.

Forests cover about 3 percent of the total land area and are found mainly in the eastern part of the country and on the southern slopes of the Hindu Kush. Woodlands in the east consist mainly of conifers, providing timber for the building industry as well as some wild nuts for export. Other trees, especially oaks, are used as fuel. North of the Hindu Kush are pistachio trees; the nuts of which are a traditional export.

C. Now answer these questions about the passage:

1. Does Afghanistan produce more food and products now than used to or less?
2. What is the major food crops produced in Afghanistan?
3. What does animal husbandry produce for local consumption?
4. What was the main problem that killed off four fifth of the livestock in 2000?
5. What kind of trees are grown in north of the Hindu Kush?

D. Choose the correct explanation.

1. The main source of income in the country is ...
 a. Food
 b. Agriculture
 c. Cotton
 d. Wheat
2. Afghanistan produces ...
 a. Enough food
 b. Less food
 c. More than enough
 d. No food
3. is also based on agriculture
 a. Factory
 b. University
 c. Shops
 d. Industry
4. Cotton, tobacco, madder etc. are the ...
 a. Industrial crops
 b. Timbers
 c. Dairy products
 d. Cooking materials
5. The economy of Afghanistan is proper using of agricultural resources.
 a. Connected to
 b. Involved to
 c. Related to
 d. Converted to
6. The order of the seasons is: spring
 a. Summer, winter, autumn
 b. Autumn, winter, summer
 c. Winter, autumn, summer
 d. Summer, autumn, winter
7. Afghanistan's exports are:.....
 a. Wheat
 b. Rice
 c. Karakul and wool
 d. Cotton
8. The two-third of annual milk production is from
 a. Cows
 b. Horse
 c. Camel
 d. Mule
9. How many percents of the population were draw its livelihood from a rural economy
 a. 90 percent
 b. 95 percent
 c. 80 percent
 d. 85 percent
10. Which tree uses as a fuel
 a. Oaks
 b. Cypress
 c. Willow

UNIT 3

ENVIRONMENT The

AT THE END OF THIS UNIT, STUDENTS WILL BE ABLE TO:

- discuss about the environment.
- read passages about problems with the ozone layer and the red sea in danger.
- learn new words and use them in sentences.
- know the first conditional or if clause and review that.
- write a paragraph about pollution in the earth.

Discussion

THE ENVIRONMENT

Look at the pictures. Then discuss the questions below.

A. POLLUTION OF THE ATMOSPHERE

1. What can you see on the left and on the right?
2. What is happening to the smoke and gasses?
3. What do you think the result is?

B. POLLUTION OF THE RIVERS AND SEAS

1. What can you see on the left and on the right?
2. What are the chemicals and the oil polluting?
3. What will happen to the health of human beings?

C. POLLUTION OF THE LAND

1. What is the farmer doing on the left?
2. What is the bulldozer doing on the right?
3. What will the result be?

PROBLEMS WITH THE OZONE LAYER†

The atmosphere surrounding the earth is divided by scientists into several layers. About 12 kilometers up from the earth's surface, the layer called the stratosphere begins. Inside this, there is a layer of gas known as the ozone layer.

The ozone layer is especially important because it protects the earth's surface from many of the sun's ultraviolet rays. These can be deadly for humans.

In 1983, scientists working in the Antarctic found that the quantity of ozone into the stratosphere had decreased. The problem has become worse since then. Satellite pictures now show a hole as large as the U.S.A. in the ozone layer above Antarctica. There is more and more evidence which shows that the quantity of ozone in the atmosphere above populated regions of the earth is also becoming less.

If the ozone layer over populated areas continues to decrease, the results could be very dangerous for us. Ultraviolet rays are known to cause skin cancer. They are also thought to cause eyes diseases. Without enough ozone to protect us from the ultraviolet rays, diseases like these will certainly increase. Scientists believe that one main cause of decreasing ozone is a group of man-made chemicals called chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs). These are used for cooling in fridges and air – conditioners, for making plastic foam, and in aerosol sprays. CFCs rise as gases into the stratosphere and destroy ozone. The only answer to the problem seems to be producing fewer CFCs. In 1987, a group of 24 Industrial countries met in Canada and agreed to produce 50% fewer CFCs by 1999. If we did not have this agreement, 131 million extra cases of skin cancer cases would happen before 2075

The main cause of the decrease is ozone in the earth's atmosphere

Reading Questions

Write answers to the questions below.

Find the answers on the previous page of your book.

Then write the numbers of the lines where you found the answer.

Write the answer to the questions.

E.g., Where does the stratosphere begin?

If + past, ... would

Now look at this example from the reading passage:

If we did not have this agreement, 131 million extra cases of skin cancer would occur before 2075.

It is hardly possible that these extra cases will occur because we already have this agreement. So we use

WRITING FROM A TABLE

1. Look at this table.

	PROBLEM	CAUSE	RESULT
A	Pollution of the earth's atmosphere	1. Factories and cars spread smoke and gases into the air. 2. Aerosol sprays, plastic foam and coolants release CFCs into the stratosphere.	- Causes disease in humans - Damages plants and animals
B	Pollution of the earth's water supply	1. Factories pour waste materials into the rivers. 2. Ships spill oil into the seas and oceans.	- Kills fish and birds - Spoils our drinking water

2. Now read this paragraph. It was written from part A of the table.

Pollution of the Earth's Atmosphere

The earth's atmosphere is becoming polluted because factories and cars spread smoke and gases into the air. Also, aerosol sprays, plastic foam and coolants release CFCs into the stratosphere. This pollution causes disease in humans and it damages plants and animals.

3. Write a paragraph like the one above.
 Use the information in part B of the table. Remember to write a title.

THE RED SEA IN DANGER

A. Do these new words look like any words you already know?

Sometimes it is possible to guess the meaning of a new word because it looks like a word you already knows.

Look at the following words. Do they look like any words you have learned? Discuss them with your teacher.

1 Redness
The Red Sea is red. This redness is caused by quantity of red plankton.

2 Creatures
The Red Sea is home to a lot of very special fish and other creatures ...

3 Totally
At present, the Red Sea is almost totally free of pollution.

4 Overfishing
For example, they must prevent overfishing and continue to protect fish nursery grounds

5 Re-opening
Since the 2001 re-opening of girls schools have been seen in Afghanistan.

6 Beauty
Another danger comes from the beauty and variety of the Red Sea's marine life.

B. Try guessing the meaning of these words.

These new words are from The Red Sea in Danger. Look carefully at each one and read the words around it. Then answer the questions to show you have understood them.

1. Coral

... the coral reefs in the Red Sea are some of the biggest and most beautiful in the world. Corals are tiny animals.

Corals are ...

a. Large fish

b. Tiny animals

c. A kind of plant

d. The bones of dead fish.

2. Reef

Over thousands of years, the calcium skeletons of dead corals grow together to form huge underwater structures called reefs.

A reef is made of ...

a. Mud and salt.

b. Minerals from the earth.

c. Sea plants.

d. Dead corals.

3. The Great Lakes

The Red Sea does not have the problems which are making the Great Lakes in North America and the Mediterranean Sea into huge sewers.

The Great Lakes are ...

a. Famous mountains.

b. Large deserts in Asia.

c. Large bodies of water in North America

d. Huge farms near the Mediterranean.

4. Flow

This cannot happen in the Red Sea because so little rain falls on the area and because there is only one river which flows into the sea – Baraka in Sudan.

The verb flow describes ...

- a. The movements of water in a river
- b. The action of falling snow
- c. The movement of canals in the desert
- d. Growth of sea animals

5. Shrimp

These bays are important nursery grounds for fish, shrimps and other forms of marine life.

THE RED SEA IN DANGER*D. Prepare to read the passage silently

A very special sea

The Red Sea is a very special sea for several reasons;

First, it is red. This redness is caused by quantities of red plankton (plankton are tiny forms of life which floats in all the seas and oceans). These float to the surface and during the day, give this sea the color of tomato soup.

Second, it is home to a lot of very special fish and other creatures which are not found anywhere else in the world in fact, it is estimated that about 10% of all the creatures in the Red Sea are only found there.

Third, the coral reefs in the Red Sea are some of the biggest and most beautiful in the world. Corals are tiny animals. Over thousands of years, the calcium skeletons of dead corals grow together to form huge underwater structures called reefs. The living corals grow on the skeletons of the dead ones.

There is Little Pollution at Present

At present, the Red Sea is almost totally free of pollution; it does not have the problems which are making the Great Lakes in North America and the Mediterranean Sea into huge sewers.

The Red Sea is an important shipping route. However, the countries around the sea Egypt, Sudan, Ethiopia, Yemen and Saudi Arabia are lightly populated along the coasts and there are only a few large ports.

In other parts of the world, sand and mud are washed into the rivers by rain. Then the rivers carry the sand and mud down to the coast. Sand and mud build up on coral reefs. They can stop coral breathing and feeding.

This cannot happen in the Red Sea because so little rain falls on the area and because there is only one river which flows into the sea of Baraka in Sudan.

In addition, there is little agriculture in the coastal areas because of the dry climate.

Therefore, few pesticides or other agricultural chemicals can find their way into the Red Sea.

But what about the future? What are the dangers?

On the other hand, the Red Sea is extremely vulnerable. Like the Mediterranean, it is completely closed, so any pollutants which do get into it will stay there. There are almost no tides or currents to take them away nor rivers to dilute them.

Therefore, the governments of Saudi Arabia and other countries around the sea are beginning to worry about the dangers of developing industries along the coast. They are also worried about increased shipping. They worry that pollution might one day destroy the reefs and the beautiful creatures that live there.

Already, some of the results of increased shipping have been seen.

Since the 1976 re – opening of the Suez Canal, garbage and oil have been seen in the water. People are worried that this will get worse.

In addition, there is the danger of shipwrecks and collisions. The Red Sea is well known for its dangerous reefs and the problems it causes for navigation. Therefore, when there is more tanker traffic, extra care will be necessary to prevent shipwrecks and collisions.

Several countries are developing modern ports and industrial cities along the coast. New ports and factories are often planned on the natural bays which occur on both sides of the Red Sea. These bays are important nursery grounds for fish, shrimps and other forms of marine life.

In coastal cities, because of last growing populations, sewage has sometimes been released directly into the sea. Because there are almost no tides, these wastes can stay close to the shore and pollute the coral.

The fishing industry, too trying to supply the growing populations on the coasts, has caused problems. For example, around Jeddah several of the fish and shellfish populations are now smaller than they should be.

Another danger comes from the beauty and variety of the Red Sea's marine life. Skin divers, scuba divers and shell collections have already lessened the numbers of many of the fish and shellfish.

What are the countries around the Red Sea doing today to protect them?

Again, the situation today is not bad. However, the countries around the Red Sea want to make a network of marine parks in the region. In January 1976, they agreed on a plan to protect the Red Sea.

A national marine park has been made in the Red Sea of the Ethiopian coast. There, spear fishing is banned. In areas where tourists are welcome, breaking and collecting coral and shells is prohibited. In 1980, Saudi Arabia opened the Asir National Park, which includes part of the Red Sea coast and coral reefs. Egypt opened its Ras Muhammad National Park in the Red Sea.

Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Sudan have also taken steps to protect possible nursery grounds for fish in the Red Sea.

Of course, to make sure all the life in the sea survives; the countries around it will have to do more. For example, they must prevent overfishing, continue to protect fish nursery grounds and control spear fishing. They must also control waste and sewage, and protect creatures such as the dugong, the sting ray, the shark and the turtle. Finally, they must build more marine parks.

Fortunately, leaders in Saudi Arabia and the other countries have shown their willingness to take such steps and to do so before it becomes too late.

E. Now answer these questions about the passage.

1. Give three reasons why the Red Sea is special.
 - a. It is _____.
 - b. Many of its fish and other creatures are not _____.
 - c. It has some of the biggest and most beautiful _____ in the world.

2. Give three reasons why there is little pollution in the Red Sea at present.
 - a. The countries around it are lightly _____.
 - b. There are only a few large _____.
 - c. There is only one _____ which _____ into the sea.

3. Complete this list of the dangers to the Red Sea in the future:
 - a. garbage and _____
 - b. shipwrecks and _____
 - c. modern _____ and industrial _____
 - d. the _____ industry
 - e. the _____ and _____ of the Red Sea's marine life.

4. Name three countries which have made national marine parks:
 - a. _____
 - b. _____
 - c. _____

F. Write the correct letter in each box:

1. The redness of the Red Sea is caused by ...
 a. Red plankton.
 b. Red soil in the water.
 c. Red minerals in the water.
 d. Tomatoes and other red vegetables.
2. Coral reefs are made of ...
 a. Sand and mud.
 b. Shipwrecks.
 c. Living corals.
 d. Skeletons.
3. In this passage, the Mediterranean Sea is compared to a ...
 a. Sea creature.
 b. Nursery ground.
 c. Sewer.
 d. Coral reef.
4. There are ... along the coast of the Red Sea.
 a. Many large ports.
 b. Only a few large ports.
 c. No large ports.
5. Which country has a river flowing into the Red Sea?
 a. Saudi Arabia.
 b. Yemen.
 c. Ethiopia.

UNIT 7

OIL

AT THE END OF THIS UNIT, STUDENTS WILL BE ABLE TO:

- ask and answer question about the oil.
- read a story about the oil and mining in Afghanistan.
- learn new words and use them in sentences.
- use the time clause and passive voice in proper way and review that.
- solve puzzles and write paragraphs from notes.

OIL

Discussion

Ask and answer these questions:

1. What is crude oil?
2. Where does crude oil come from?
3. How is it found?
4. How is it extracted from the ground?
5. What are refineries for?

Reading

THE HISTORY OF OIL

Oil began to form millions of years ago. This process started with the tiny plants and animals that lived in the earth's oceans. When they died, they sank to the bottom of the sea and rotted. Then, they were covered by other things, including rock, which sometimes pushed them deep into the earth. For millions of years, the chemistry of those tiny animals and plants changed. Hydrogen and carbon came together and made hydrocarbons. When that happened, oil and natural gas were formed.

Oil can be found under the earth's surface but it is not easy to find. So, modern technology must be used. For example, information from satellite pictures helps to make geological maps. These show the rock structures under the surface of the earth. Also, when vibrations are made by explosions at the earth's surface, they can be measured by special instruments. In this way the shapes, sizes and types of rocks under the ground are shown. Other methods are also used in order to find where oil may be.

There are several likely places where oil may be found. These include deep under the sea, under the desert or under the ice and snow.

However, there is only one way to be sure that there is oil in a certain place. Special drills must go deep underground and extract samples of the earth from there. If there are oil and gas. The drills bring them up, too.

When crude oil and gas come from the ground, they are mixed with many other substances. These can be solids, liquids and gases. Before the oil and gas can be used, unwanted substances must be removed at a refinery. In a few hours, refineries produce several pure substances, such as petrol for cars and butane gas for cooking.

Oil products have become part of our daily life. Clothes, plastic toys, cars, roads, furniture and buildings all contain hydrocarbons. Our lives would be very different without them.

True/False

Are the following sentences true or false?

First, find the answer in the reading passage, and then write the line number. Finally, write T or F in the box.

- Line(s) 2-3 1. Oil is formed from tiny plants and animals.
 Line(s) 2. Satellites and vibrations are the only ways to find oil.
 Line(s) 3. Drills always find oil and gas.
 Line(s) 4. Petrol is the only product that comes from a refinery.
 Line(s) 5. Furniture and building are oil products.

UNIT REVIEW

Word Study

deep (adj) far down.

Deep can describe things like rivers, lakes, oceans, wells, swimming-pools and holes in the ground.

That well is thirty meters deep.

How deep is your swimming-pool?

depth (n) Depth is the noun form of deep (Compare high / height, long / length and wide / width.)

*Make sentences with the words depth, height, length and width.

extract (ex tract) (V – reg) take out, pull out

The sugar juice is extracted from sugar cane.

Oil workers use drills to extract oil from the ground.

include (in clued) (V – reg) treat something or someone as part of group or set. Our library includes several English dictionaries.

likely (like ly) (adj) probable.

It is likely they will find oil here. It is a likely place for oil.

Note that likely is an adjective. Usually words that end in –ly are adverbs.

*Name some adverbs ending with –ly.

*Name some adjectives ending with –ly.

liquid (li quid) (n) one of the three forms that substances can have. (The other two are gas and solid [see solid in the word study]). Water is the liquid form of H₂O. ice is the solid form.

*Say if each of these things is a gas, a liquid or a solid: water, wood, oil, hydrogen, rock, concrete, fruit juice, ozone, soft drink, steel.

method (me thod) (n) a way of doing something.

Mr. Aziz has an interesting method of teaching chemistry.

I think that reading a newspaper is the best method of learning the latest news.

*Do you think this method of flying will succeed?

Grammar

Time Clauses

1

Every clause must have a subject and a verb.

Look at this sentence:

When they died, they sank to the bottom of the sea.

This sentence has two clauses: a time clause and a main clause.

Time clause		Main clause
S	V	S
When they died,		they sank to the bottom of the sea.

A time clause can go after a main clause. The meaning does not change.

	MAIN clause	TIME clause
S	V	S
they sank to the bottom of the sea.		When they died,

Now look at these sentences and ...

- a. say the time clause.
- b. say the main clause.
- c. change the order of the clauses.

1. Since the time that Allah's words were written down in the Holy Quran, Islam has spread all over the world.
2. As they advanced to the north, the Arabs were met by the Romans.
3. When they went away, the family travelled on camels and horses.
4. When someone was sick, his mother used to make remedies.
5. The children all want to do different jobs when they grow up.

These words can introduce adverb clauses:

After
As soon as Before
Since
When

Grammar

A. In each clause, mark the subject (S) and the verb (V).

In each sentence, mark the TIME CLAUSE and the MAIN CLAUSE.

V

As they advanced to the north, they were met by the Romans.

1. When the family went away, they traveled on camels and horses.
2. When someone was sick, his mother used to make remedies.
3. The children all want to do different jobs when they grow up.

B. Join the two sentences into one sentence in your notebook. Use When.

Remember to use a comma because the time clause comes first.

Example:

Muslims went to different countries. They introduced Islam there.

When Muslims went to different countries, they introduced Islam there.

1. The last Roman army was defeated. Arabic language replaced Latin.
2. He was a boy. Hamid looked after his father's sheep.
3. The day's work ended. They used to listen to stories.

C. Join the two sentences into one sentence in your notebook. Use different words to introduce the time clause: Before, After, As.

Example:

Khalid moved into a new town house. He had lived in a traditional house before.

Before Khalid moved into a new house in town, he had lived in a traditional house.

1. Hamid became a farmer. He had looked after his father's sheep before.
2. Explosions are made. The vibrations are measured by special instruments.
3. The Muslims travelled to more countries. They spread the message of Islam and introduced it there.

Writing

Writing from Notes

You have just received a letter from your pen-friend. Your friend is doing a project at school, with the title.

The story of Natural Gas

Your friend has written to ask you for all the information you can give. Write and explain as clearly as you can. Here are some notes to help you.

Read these notes and use them all. Use a passive verb in each sentence.

Remember
You are describing a process. Start some of your sentences with connecting words like

First,
Then,
Next,
After that,
Finally,

Gas - find in the ground

It - extract from the ground

Photographs of likely places - take from airplanes

Information about them - receive from satellites

Geological maps and rocks from the area - examine by scientists

Explosions - make on the earth's surface - vibrations from explosions - measure by special instruments

Drills - use to extract samples of rocks and to bring natural gas to the surface

Gas - take in pipes to a refinery

Unwanted substances - remove there
Pure gas, such as butane - produce

Also

Remember

You can connect two ideas with a time clause. For example:

After explosions are made on the earth's surface, vibrations are measured by special instruments.

Revision

Time Clause

The following chart gives you information about the words used in time clauses.

when		describes the first action
		use with the simple past
Example I was packing my suitcase when the travel agent called.
after		describes the first action
		use with the simple past
Example I packed my suitcase after I washed my clothes.
before		describes the second action
		use with the simple past
Example I washed my clothes before I packed my suitcase.
while		describes actions that happen at the same time use with the past continuous
Example I was thinking about my holiday while I was packing my suitcase.

Revision

The following exercise will give you practice using time clauses.

Choose the best answer to complete the sentences.

Example:

I visited my friend in park _____ I was on vacation in Herat.

- a. When
- b. While
- c. Before

Choose “when” because it is the best answer.

1. I waited for the bus at the bus stop for ten minutes _____ it arrived.
 - a. When
 - b. Before
 - c. After
2. _____ I was boarding the train, the whistle blew.
 - a. When
 - b. While
 - c. After
3. I was standing on the platform _____ the train arrived.
 - a. While
 - b. After
 - c. When
4. I boarded the plane _____ I bought a ticket.
 - a. After
 - b. When
 - c. While
5. I hiked in the Rocky Mountains _____ I was visiting Canada.
 - a. While
 - b. When
 - c. After

A. Try guessing the meaning of these words. Look at each word carefully and read the words around it. Then complete the exercise for homework.

1. Mines ...

- a. Ground
- b. A large excavation made in the earth, from which to extract metallic, ore, coal ... etc.
- c. A large building
- d. Refinery

2. Vital means....

- a. Dead
- b. Unnecessary to life
- c. Necessary or essential to life
- d. Living things

Mining in Afghanistan

Having mines plays an important role in the progress, developing and promoting of economy in a country, also it is valuable for maintaining of vital level of a nation. Therefore the construction of a country and its Nation's economy is related to its mines and the ways of usage the mines. According to the researches and existence documents, there are different mines around in Afghanistan, which still some of them have not been exploited, just a few of them have been used in preliminary way such as; gold, silver, cooper, iron ore, gemstones, petroleum and natural gas etc. Geological researches show that, 24 kinds of mines minerals are existed and they are useable in 89 areas of Afghanistan, but unfortunately they have been exploited so far.

Generally, from an economical point of view, these mines are valuable and they are in a huge number of quantity. Having mines, Afghanistan is potentially very rich country and has a very good future if they are exploited wisely. The famous mines of Afghanistan are: coal, barite, talc, petrol, steel, copper, azure, salt, gold, silver and natural gases.

Commodities

Copper

In the past, copper had been mined from Herat and Farah Province in the west, Kapisa Province in the east, Kandahar and Zabul Provinces in the south. Since 2006, interest was focused on the Aynak, the Darband, and the Jawkhar prospects in southeastern Afghanistan. Copper mineralization at Aynak in Logar Province was section bound and characterized by bornite and chalcopyrite disseminated in dolomite marble and quartz-biotite-dolomite schist of the Loy Khwar Formation. Although a resource of 240 million metric tons at a grade of 2.3% copper had been reported, a number of small ore lenses were potentially not practically and economically minable. Open-pit or opencast and underground mining would be needed to exploit the main ore body, and other infrastructure problems, such as inadequate power and water, were also likely. According to the new Mining Law there are nine mining companies from Australia, China, India, and the United States interested in the prospect of the copper mine of Aynak, but eventually a company from China was given the contract.

Gemstones

Afghanistan is known to have exploited its precious and semiprecious gemstone deposits. These deposits include aquamarine, emerald, fluorite, garnet, kunzite, ruby, sapphire, semiprecious lapis lazuli, topaz, tourmaline, and varieties of quartz. The four main gemstone-producing areas are Badakhshan, Jegdalek, Nooristan, and the Panjshir.

Artisans mining of gemstones in the country are using primitive methods. Some gemstones were exported illicitly, mostly to India (which was the world's leading import market for colored gemstones and an outlet for higher quality gems) and to the domestic Pakistani market.

Petroleum and natural gases

The U.S. Geological Survey and the Ministry of Mines and Industries jointly assessed the oil and gas resources in northern Afghanistan. The estimated volumes of undiscovered petroleum were 1,596 million barrels (Mbbl) of crude oil, 444 billion cubic meters of natural gas, and 562 Mbbl of natural gas liquids. Most of the undiscovered crude oil occurs in the Afghan-Tajik Basin and most of the undiscovered natural gas is located in the Amu Darya Basin. These two basins within Afghanistan encompass areas of approximately 515,000 square kilometers.

C. Write the correct letter in each box:

- Mines plays an important role in developing of in a country
 - Buildings
 - Education
 - Technology

COMMUNICATIONS

1. Look at the following signs on this page. Say what you can see in each one?
2. What do all the signs have in common?
3. What do you think the word communications means?

Reading

Telecommunications in Afghanistan

The Ministry of Telecommunications and Information Technology of Afghanistan was established in 1955.

Afghanistan has been entered in the world of electronic communication in 1898 by installing a one- to – one wired telephone at Arg Palace (Royal residence) in Kabul.

Telegraph service was the next telecommunications facility launched in Afghanistan in 1914; in 1919 several 50- line and 100- line telephone systems (switchboards) were installed in the Shahi- Du – Shamsheera post office in Kabul. For the first time 14 students were given scholarships to get education in wireless telegraphy abroad.

Telecommunications in Afghanistan have been dramatically increased since 2002, and several wireless companies, internet, radio stations and television channels have been embarked on. In Afghanistan, there are several telecommunications companies like: Afghan Wireless, Roshan, Areeba (MTN), Etisalat etc, but Afghan Wireless and Roshan are the first cellular phones which have been established in the beginning of new millennium.

The companies have been trying to develop and expand telephone, internet, television and radio broadcasting services throughout the country.

Telephone:

In 2007, approximately eight out of hundred people have been provided access to a telephone. There were over 1.4 Million cellular lines in the country. The International calling code for Afghanistan is +93. The following is a list of cellular phone companies in the country.

Internet:

At present there are at least 22 Internet Service Providers providing their services to the people of Afghanistan. Internet in Afghanistan is also at the peak with at least 535,000 users in 2007. The following is a list of the Internet Service Providers operating in Afghanistan.

- Afghan Wireless
- GTSC
- Insta Telecom
- Danish Net based in Nimroz
- Neda Telecommunications
- Ts 2
- Bentley Walker

Postal service:

In 1870, the Bala Hissar post office was established in Kabul and a post office in the center of each province. And a post office was established in each large city by 1918. Afghanistan became a member of the Universal postal Union in 1928.

Present Perfect Passive Voice

Present and Past Passive

Pay close attention to the following sentences. They have passive verbs.

Telecommunications are developed very rapidly.
The Ministry of Telecoms was established in 1955.

The first one is in the present tense and the second one is in the past tense.

Present Perfect Passive

Tele communications in Afghanistan have been dramatically increased.

In 2007, 8% people of the country have been provided access to a telephone.

The verbs are passive because it is not important to us who did these things.

The verbs are present perfect because we do not know exactly when they were done, but it was in the past.

Look at the form of the verbs in the present perfect passive:

S	+	has have	been	+	Past participle
---	---	-------------	------	---	-----------------

Grammar

A. Look at this:

Yesterday, you saw some great bikes in a shop. Today, you want to buy one. You are back at the shop now but all the bikes have gone. What does the salesman say?

All the bikes have been sold.

(sold)

B. Now read the following sentences and complete them in your notebook.

(1) You look down at the floor and see that the mirror is in pieces.

The mirror

(broken)

(2) When you left your room this morning, it was very dirty.

Now it is clean.

The room

(cleaned)

(3) The last time that you were in Herat, there was no mosque near your hotel. Now there is a new one.

A new

(4) You visited that university ten years ago. It was very small.

Now you are there again. It is much bigger now.

The university

(enlarged)

(5) When you left the match fifteen minutes ago, your team's players were very happy. They thought they would win. You have just returned, 30 seconds before the end. Now they look very sad.

They

(defeated)

Writing

Write a paragraph about improvements in the Afghanistan telephone system. First, write a title. Then write your paragraph.

1

The Present Perfect Passive

Do you remember the present perfect passive tense?

A

Telecommunications in Afghanistan have been dramatically increased.

B

This is the form of the present perfect passive tense:

I	have	been	introduced.
You We they
He	has		released
She It

C

Make sentences from the table.

Taking out which, that and who

In the sentences below, the verb after which or who is ACTIVE.

Do you remember this?

A

These are the courses which take place here.
taking place here.

Pay close attention to the following example:
Several Afghanisthan provinces and foreign countries, including the U.S.A., Britain, Egypt, Europe and Japan, have been connected by electronic mail.

Look at the next page to see what happens if the verb is PASSIVE.

In the sentences below, the verb after which or who is PASSIVE.

Look at how these sentences can change:

The mobile system,	which is managed by the Ministry of communication managed by the MoC,	has grown a lot.
The quantity of mail	which is handled by the postal service handled by the postal service.	has increased.
The new mobile system,	which was introduced in the beginning of new millennium... Introduced in ...	help our people.

HISTORY Of Telecommunications

Early Telecommunications

The history of telecommunications has been started with smoke signals and drums which were used for communication in Africa, America and parts of Asia.

Drums were used by natives in Africa, New Guinea and South America and smoke signals in North America and China.

In 1792, a French engineer, Claude Chappe built the first visual telegraph (or semaphore) system between Lille and Paris. However semaphore as a communication system suffered from the need for skilled operators and expensive towers of only ten to thirty kilometers. As a result, the last commercial line was abandoned in 1880.

Telegraph and Telephone

A very early experiment in electrical telegraphy was an ‘electrochemical’ which was created by the German physician, anatomist and inventor Samuel Thomas in 1809. Both their designs employed multiple wires in order to visually represent almost all Latin letters and numerals.

Thus, message could be conveyed electrically up to a few kilometers, with each of the telegraph receiver’s wires immersed in a separate glass tube of acid. An electrical current was in order applied by the sender through the various wires representing each digit of message. The telegraph receiver’s operator would visually observe the bubbles and could then record the transmitted message. The principal disadvantage to the system was its high-priced cost, due to having to manufacture and string – up the multiple wire circuits it employed, as opposite to the single wire used by later telegraphs.

The first commercial electrical telegraph was constructed in England. It used the deflection of needles to represent messages and started operating over twenty- one kilometers of the Great Western Railway on 9 April 1839.

On the other side of the Atlantic Ocean, Samuel Morse independently developed a version of the electrical telegraph that he unsuccessfully demonstrated on 2 September 1837.

The first successful transatlantic telegraph cable was completed on 27 July 1866, allowing transatlantic telecommunication for the first time.

The international use of the telegraph has sometimes been called the “Victorian Internet”. The conventional telephone was invented by Alexander Graham Bell in 1876, based on his earlier work with harmonic (multi signal) telegraphs. The first commercial telephone services were set up in 1878 and 1879 on both sides of the Atlantic in the cities of New Haven and London. Bell held the master patent for the telephone that was needed for such services in both countries. The technology grew quickly from this point, with inter-city lines being built and telephone exchanges in every major city of the United States by the mid-1880s.

In 1880, Bell and co-inventor Charles Sumner Tainter conducted the world’s first wireless telephone call via modulate light beams projected by photophone. The scientific principles of their invention would not be utilized for several decades, when they were first deployed in military and fiber-optic communications.

C. Now choose the correct definition:

- The history of telecommunications has been started in...
 - Africa, America and part of Asia
 - Canada and Asia
 - Australia and Antarctica
 - America, Australia and Europe
- The first fixed semaphore was emerged in
 - 1780

UNIT 9

A REFRESHING DRINK

AT THE END OF THIS UNIT, STUDENTS WILL BE ABLE TO:

- ask and answer questions about a refreshing drink.
- learn the important rules of reading and read passages about tea and the most popular drink in the world.
- know the new words and use them in sentences.
- get information about reported speech and review that.
- write paragraphs from notes.

DRINK*MENU*COLD BEVERAGES

Soft drinks ... 10 Afs per glass

Juice ... 15 Afs per glass

HOT BEVERAGES

Tea ... 10 Afs per cup

Coffee ... 20 Afs per cup

Ask and answer these questions:

1. What do you think is the most popular drink in the world?
2. Which would you rather drink: coffee or tea?
Give a reason for your choice.
3. Where does coffee come from? Is it made from beans or leaves?
4. Where does tea come from? Is it made from beans or leaves?
5. Where do people drink coffee and tea?
Do they energies people's spirit for good performance at work?
6. How do you make tea? Do you use tea bags or loose tea?

Tea

Is there anyone in the world who has never drunk tea? Today, tea is an international drink.

However, tea drinking started in China. In fact, there is a belief in China that the Emperor Shen Nung discovered tea 5,000 years ago. As he boiling his drinking water, some leaves from a nearby plant fell into it. He was very pleased with the taste. He said that the drink had been refreshing, had made him feel good and had helped him to stay awake. He tried to grow the plant in his garden. In this way, the Chinese believe, he was responsible for beginning the world-wide custom of tea drinking.

Nowadays, tea grows well in several hot, rainy regions of the world, especially India, Sri Lanka, China, Indonesia, Bangladesh and Kenya. Most of the tea which we drink today consists of a mixture of three basic types: Ceylon tea (from Sri Lanka), Indian tea and African tea. Ceylon tea is chosen for its flavor, Indian tea for its strength and African tea is selected for its color and appearance. The selection and mixing of the different kinds of tea is done by experts called "taster".

The biggest tea drinkers in the world are the British. Nowadays, the average Briton drinks 1,650 cups a year! In the last century, it was so important that companies used to race to deliver the first tea harvest of the year to London. Tea ships (called clippers) used to compete with one another on the journey from the Far East to Britain. This clipper race was an important event that was held every year.

Ships representing different countries, such as Britain and the U.S.A., took part in it. The ship which won received a special award, usually cash. A ship called The Curty Sark had the record for many years. You can still see this clipper in London today. Today, many people would rather use tea bags than loose tea. But the tea bags have only appeared recently. In 1904, a man called Thomas Sullivan, who owned a small tea and coffee business in the United States, sent samples of his tea in small silk bags to several hundred customers. The customers liked the tea bags so much that they asked for more. Tea bags are now made of a special kind of paper and the making of tea bags is a big industry. Who knows what the next development in the tea business will be? Who knows what they will achieve? What do you think?

Tea is grown in these countries but drunk world-wide.

THE MOST POPULAR DRINK IN THE WORLD

A. Before you begin reading, ...

Before you begin reading. The Most Popular Drink in the World (which begins on page 135), take a minute or two to look at it. Do not try to understand everything yet. Just look at the title, the pictures and the way it is arranged.

Answer the following questions in class with your teacher:

1. Look at the title of the reading. What do you think the reading is about?
2. Find the beginning and the end of the reading. How many pages are there?
3. How many lines are there in the reading? Why is it difficult to count them quickly?
4. How many different parts are there in the reading? Which part is different from the others?
5. How many countries can you read about?
6. What is the other part about?
6. Look quickly at the first two lines of every part. What is the most popular drink in the world?
7. In which order must you read the parts?

B. Try guessing the meaning of these words.

These new words are from The Most Popular Drink in the World. Look carefully at each one and read the words around it. Then answer the question to show you have understood the word.

Note: Do as much as you can in 15 minutes. Then complete the exercise for homework.

THE MUSLIM CONNECTION

In the sixteenth century AD, people in Europe began to hear stories of a “strange” country called China and its unusual customs. This people’s main food was rice, and both the poor and the rich drank an unknown beverage – tea. The Europeans heard these stories from Muslim traders who controlled the trade routes between east and west. The first mention of tea in a European book was in 1559. The book was written by a man from Venice in northern Italy. He got his information from a Muslim trader called Hajji Mohammad. Nowadays, tea is drunk all over the world. However, different countries have different ways of drinking it and different customs for it. Let’s look at some of these.

MOROCCO

Moroccans put “green” tea into a silver pot, add fresh mint leaves and serve it with lots of sugar and lemon. In Morocco, it is normal for a guest to accept three glasses of tea but it is polite for the guest to refuse a fourth glass. The oldest woman in the house is responsible for serving the tea to guests.

INDIA

The Indians boil their tea in an open pot with cardamom, sugar and a lot of milk. This sweet tea is served all over India in cups and glasses, in the cities and the towns. For example, people waiting for trains can always get a cup of tea. Every railway station in India has at least one tea seller and at any time of the day of night the air is filled with the shouts of the tea sellers.

TIBET

Tea is the most popular drink in Tibet. It is usually found in the shape of a “brick”. When they want a drink, the Tibetans break some tea from the brick, put it in water and boil it for an hour until the liquid becomes black. Then they mix in salt and yak butter. Finally, they dip a kind of bread into the tea and eat it.

SRI LANKA

Tea drinking in Sri Lanka is quite a recent habit, imported from England. Tea is rarely served with meals except at breakfast time. In the villages, there are often tea shops (called “tea boutiques”). Villagers like to stop in the tea boutiques on their way home from work and relax by talking to friends and drinking tea.

CHINA

There are many stories in China about the origins of tea and we will probably never know which of these is true. However, it is certain that about 350AD, when the demand for tea leaves increased, the Chinese farmers stopped cutting down wild tea trees and started to grow the plants on their farms.

In the beginning, the Chinese drank tea mostly because they thought it was good for the stomach. However, by the beginning of the sixth century, they were drinking it as a pleasing beverage.

THE U.S.A.

The Americans like to drink tea, although not as much as the British. They have experimented with the drink, and one of the most interesting forms which they have achieved is iced tea. This is served in the summer months as a cold drink. Iced tea was invented in 1904(the same year as tea bags were invented) by a man called Richard Blechynden. He was selling hot tea on a very hot day. In order to complete with people near him selling cold drinks, he filled tall glasses with ice and poured his hot tea over the ice. The drink was immediately successful and it, has been a favorite choice of Americans on hot days ever since. Nowadays, iced tea is often made, not with tea leave, but with special “instant” tea. This is a powder which can be mixed with cold water to make tea in seconds instead of minutes. Instant tea is made in factories and needs the help of technicians to produce.

BRITAIN

The British love tea. The average Briton drinks a cup of tea as soon as he (or she) wakes up in the morning. He has more with breakfast and another cup during his morning break. He has tea with lunch and tea at four p.m then tea with dinner and tea with a late night snack.

The British usually drink their tea with milk and often with sugar, and this beverage can be found everywhere: at restaurants, in railway stations, on trains and in special tea rooms. In Britain, tea bags have not yet been completely accepted: most people do not think they are good enough. For the British, a real cup of tea must be made in pot with loose tea; one spoonful of tea for every person and a spare, or extra, spoon “for the pot”. A real British tea drinker would never allow you to make his or her tea with tea bags.

RUSSIA

Not many people know that a lot of tea is grown in Russia. The Russians like to drink their tea strong, sweet and black (that is, without milk). It is prepared using a container called Asamovar and is usually served with a slice of lemon. Sometimes jam is used to sweeten the tea instead of sugar. Another way to sweeten Russian tea is for the drinker to hold a sugar lump between his or her teeth and drink the tea through the lump.

JAPAN

People have been drinking tea in Japan for over 1,200 years. It is so important to the Japanese that there is a special ceremony for the drinking of tea. Japanese parents often send their daughters to special schools to learn the rules of laws of the ceremony before they marry. Then, after the wedding, the girls can perform it for their husbands. The tea ceremony lasts four hours and has four parts. First a small is served. Then there is a short break. Next, there is the main part of the ceremony when a “thick” tea is served. Finally, they serve the usucha, a “thin” tea. This part lasts only one hour and is often performed on its own.

C. Now answer these questions about the passage:

1. From which people did the Europeans hear stories of a strange country called China?

2. How many glasses of tea can a Moroccan politely drink?

3. What do Indians add to their tea?

4. Where can you find tea in the form of a brick?

5. In which country do people like to relax by drinking tea on the way home from the work?

6. Which country has iced tea as a favorite summer drink?

7. How long does the last part of the tea ceremony last?

The Olympic Games

The first modern Olympic Games took place in Athens on 6 April 1896. There were about 70,000 people in the crowd. Since then, the size of the Olympics has been performances increased greatly. In Los Angeles in 1984, the crowd totaled over 550,000. In Athens, 311 athletes from 13 countries competed in 9 sports. In the 1988 Seoul Games, over 9,500 competitors represented 161 nations in more than 20 sports. (see pages 147 for the names of some of the sports.)

The world's top sportsmen and sportswomen having fine would rather succeed in the Olympics than in any other competition. Their fine performances mean that there are often new records in many events. On the track in Los Angeles, two Moroccans, a man and a woman, won gold medals – the highest award. They both said that there was no secret in their success. They had had a well-planned training program and had had to follow it. It had been “hard, hard, and hard” but had changed them from average runners into Olympic champions.

Anyone who wants to succeed at that level must do the same. There is no choice. This fact did not stop other athletes from training for Seoul. There were more than 600 athletes from Muslim countries there.

In Afghanistan, the team entered the track and field (boxing, Judo, 100m Sprint, Wrestling) events. The world is preparing four years for the Olympic Games. Many athletes even have longer preparation times than that. But nine years ago, in 2000, people in Afghanistan have not really been in a position to exercise and prepare for the Olympics when the Games were on in Sydney.

The more remarkable is that five young athletes from Afghanistan have been able to meet the qualification for the Games in Athens. They have been training for several months under difficult conditions, both at home in Afghanistan as well as in Greece.

They succeeded in winning their first medal who knows what they will achieve in the next Game. The man by whose efforts was started the modern Olympics said these words: “The important thing about the Olympic Games is not winning but taking part.” All Olympic competitors do their best to win.

That is what they have trained for. However, both winners and losers mix with people who have different appearances, languages and color from their own. They compete with the best athletes in their events. From this experience they learn about others and about themselves. Most people think that this is good for international understanding.

The circles of the Olympic symbol contain at least one color from the flag of every country in the world. The nations are linked together in the rings. As the Olympic flag flies above them, athletes from different nations compete against one another in peace and not at conflict. This is the Olympic example for us all.

A. Are the following sentences true or false?

First, find the answer in the reading passage. Then, write the line number.

Finally, write T or F in the box.

Line (s) 1-3 F 1. Only nine countries were represented in the Athens Games in 1896.

Line (s) 2. There were 9,500 athletes in the 1988 Seoul Games.

Line (s) 3. The two Moroccans who won gold medals would not talk about the secret of their success.

Line (s) 4. All Olympic competitors do their best to win.

Line (s) 5. The Afghan committee's only job is to choose the Afghan Olympic team.

Line (s) 6. The Afghan Olympic team entered the track and field events.

Line (s) 7. The rings on the Olympic flag are symbols of the nations of the world.

Do you remember this from earlier in the course?
Mr. Ehsan asked a customer as well as the manager these questions in a restaurant:

The customer's friends did not see the program. The next day they asked him.

The customer reported Mr. Ehsan's questions to his friends. Look how he changed the questions:

Who asked the questions in direct speech?
Who reported the questions in reported speech?

Note the changes in the ...

- Pronouns.
- Tense of the verb.
- Word order.
- Verb. (come became went)

Other words that often change in reported speech are ...

Read the following from the reading passage, paragraph 2.
Is this direct or reported speech? What did the athletes say?

They both said that there was no secret in their success. They had had a well-planned training program and had had to follow it.

Note that the past simple and the present perfect both become past perfect in reported speech.

More Questions

Look at this question from the reading passage:

Who knows what they will achieve in the next Games?

This comes from two questions:

1. What will they achieve in the next Games? and
2. Who knows?

When they are put together in one sentence, the word order changes:

... will they ...? becomes ... they will...

A

Some questions begin with ...

Will they...? Have you...? Did it ...? Does she...? (Etc).

When reporting these, we sometimes have to do word “of”.

Example:

Is he running in this race? ▶ Can you tell me if he is running in this race?

B

When reporting these, we sometimes have to add the word “if”.

Will they win gold medals? ▶ Who knows if they will win gold medals?

How does a gold medal winner feel? Who can tell us? ▶ Who can tell us how a gold medal winner feels?

Did the Afghan team win a medal in Athens Games? Do you know? (if) ▶ Do you know if the Afghan team won a medal in the Athens Games?

Make one question for each of these:

3. When were the first modern Olympics? Can you tell me?
4. Will the next Games be in Barcelona? Do you know? (if)
5. What do the rings on the flag mean? Do you understand?
6. Did the Games take place in Paris in 1924? Can you remember? (if)
7. Were the Afghan athletes in position to prepare Olympics in 2000? Can you tell me?

STORIES FROM THE OLYMPICS

A spectator watching the 87-kilometer bicycle event was surprised to see a competitor race past him and crash at full speed into a nearby wall. He was even more surprised when the rider picked himself up and asked the spectator to lend him his bike. Then he disappeared on it and won the race.

The winner of the gold medal for the tennis singles was an Irishman. He was on holiday in Athens at the time but did not realize that the Olympic Games were taking place. He thought that the competition was a local tennis tournament.

Lesson 7 & 8

UNIT TEN

1920

One wrestling match lasted ten hours. The winner was too tired to take part in the final.

After leaving the stadium at the end of a day's competition, one athlete remembered that he had left his running shoes in the changing-room. He returned there to try to get them. However, the door was locked. He saw that one of the windows was still open, so he climbed in through it. A policeman saw him and arrested him as a thief. He ended the Games in prison.

The goal-keeper of a Spanish Olympic soccer team boasted that no opponent could score a goal past him. He was right, but Spain lost 0 to 1.

The soccer was the captain of the Spanish side who tried to pass the ball back to his own goalie. Instead, he struck the ball into his own net!

1932

In the 100-kilometer cycle race, the riders were not allowed any help from spectators. So the leader carried with him a bowl of soup, a bucket of water, bananas, bread rolls, cheese sandwiches, spaghetti and two spare tires!

There was a discuss event at the same time as the track event. The officials were watching an exciting part of the track event when one competitor threw the discuss. People in the crowd who saw it said that it was the winning throw. But none of the officials saw it. The man was allowed to throw again but he was unable to beat the others. So he did not win a medal.

UNIT TEN

1948

A gold medal winner who was only seventeen years old was asked how he would celebrate his win. He said, "Start shaving, I guess". When he flew back to his home town, the pilot of the plane was unable to land. The airport runway was covered with friends, waiting to congratulate him.

When he was weighed, one boxer found that he was too heavy. His friends tried to reduce his weight. They cut off his hair, dried him with a towel, rubbed skin off the scales. The boxer even cried for a few minutes. When technicians came to test the scale, they found that they were inaccurate and showed the wrong weight. The boxer was not too heavy after all and he was able to compete.

After winning a rowing event, one happy man threw his gold medal into the air. Unfortunately, he failed to catch it again. He knocked it into the lake, where it sank. He immediately dived into the water, but he could not retrieve it. He won the event again four years later. He was careful not to throw his medal into the air on that occasion.

1960

There was only one athlete from Surinam, a small country in South America. He had entered just one event. On the day of his race, he relaxed in the Olympic village in order to be ready for the afternoon. When he arrived at the stadium, he found that the race had been run in the morning. So he had to return home to Surinam without running at all.

1964

In the bicycle road race of about 195 kilometers, one rider was only sixteen hundredths of a second behind the winner. But, because so many riders crossed the finishing-line together, he came 51st!

In one match, a boxer held his opponent and hit him with an open glove. This is a foul. When he was disqualified, the boxer became angry and hit the referee in his face. As a result, he was banned from boxing for the rest of the life.

1976

In a sailing event, two Englishmen had problems with their boat for the third time. So they decided to set fire to it. One of them suggested that the other should be a good captain and stay on the boat as it sank! He refused.

QUESTIONS THAT EXPECT THE ANSWER YES, AND POLITE QUESTIONS

A. Do you remember questions like these?
(We ask them when we think the answer will be Yes.)

There's a supermarket near here, isn't it there?

Yes, there is.

Supermarkets are really convenient, aren't they?

Yes, they are.

In both of these questions, it is easy to know which verb to use at the end. (It is the same as the one at the beginning).

There's a supermarket near here, Isn't there?
Supermarkets are really convenient,
Aren't they?

B. Make some more questions (and answers) like the ones above. Use these sentences:

- The first supermarkets were small.
- I have told you this before.
- In cold climates, they could light fires.

A. Now look at these questions from the interview in lesson 1:

You come from this area, don't you?

Yes, I do. I'm from Kabul.

You come from the United States, don't you?

Yes, I do.

These questions above are similar to the ones in Box 1 because they expect the answer yes. However, you cannot see immediately which verb to use at the end. You have to know that it is the present simple tense and that questions are asked with do and does in this tense.

You come from this area, don't you?

B. Now make some questions and answers for tag questions.

Nouns Used as Adjectives

1

Look at the phrases from earlier in the unit.

Car park	shopping center
Market street	meat market
Fish market	prayer time

Each one is made from two nouns.

For example, car + park

The order is important. In the phrase car park, the word car describes the park.

B

We can ask: What kind of park is it?

The answer is. A park for cars. (or) A car park. We cannot ask:

What kind of car is it?

So the word car is an adjective here, and it comes first.

Look at these:

A park for cars is a car park.

A market in street is a street market.

A market for meat is a meat market.

A market for fish is a fish market.

A center for shopping is a shopping center.

The time for prayers is prayer time.

C

Answer the following questions.

1. What do we call an advertisement on television?
2. What do we call soup with vegetables in it?
3. What do we call a book for studying history?
4. What do we call a ticket for travelling on a plane?
5. What do we call a watch that we wear on our wrist?
6. What do we call a store that sells shoes?

2

Questions That Expect the Answer Yes.

Do you remember questions which we ask when we expect the answer yes?

You come from this area, don't you?
He lives there, doesn't he?

Here is how we form them:

I	feel	don't	I?
You	feel	don't	you?
We	hot,		we?
They			they?
He	feels	doesn't	he?
She	hot,		she?
It			it?

Remember we do not usually write questions like these. We only say them.

2

Polite Questions

Remember how we ask someone politely to do something for us: Also remember these possible answers:

Would you mind helping me?

No. Not at all.

Would you mind looking at this?

No. I'll be happy to

Would you mind opening the door?

No. Of course not.

Bazaars: The Fascinating Markets of the Muslim World

All the big cities of the Central Asia, Middle East and North Africa have their great bazaars. In Kabul, Herat and Jilalabad, in Tehran, Isfahan and Shiraz, in Manama, Riyadh and Jeddah, in Beirut, Damascus and Istanbul, in Cairo, San'a Tripoli, Tunis, Rabat, Fez and Marrakesh, the real heart of the town is the busy, exciting bazaar.

Westerners Are Fascinated by Bazaars

American and Europeans visiting or working in Central Asian, Middle Eastern and North African cities are fascinated by the bazaars. This is not surprising. Bazaars are always colorful and often beautiful. For example, the Kabul Mandaie which is located near to Puli – Khishti Mosque, you can find different things. It delights your nose with a mixture of smells including spices and incense.

It also delights your eyes with a mixture of merchandise from tape recorders to cassettes, from shoes to televisions, and so on.

Often, the merchants are more interesting than their merchandise. You can talk and joke to them, and you can touch and taste their merchandise. But it is the ways of the bazaars that Westerners find really fascinating.

For example, in some Western countries, customers never pick up and handle the goods which are on display. A European greengrocer will become quite angry if you touch his fruits or vegetables. In Central Asian and Middle Eastern bazaars, on the other hand, shoppers are usually free to handle the goods. Many are not used to this at first.

However, when Westerners came to Afghanistan and other Asian countries they soon discovered that they like "testing" the goods before they buy them.

Probably the biggest difference between Central Asian and Middle Eastern and Western shopping traditions is the bargaining. Every where in the West, stores sell goods at fixed prices. A shopkeeper would be annoyed if you asked him to sell you something at a price lower than the one shown on the price tag.

Therefore, Westerners do not really understand bargaining and it is a difficult skill for them to learn. Many of them either pay the first price the shopkeeper asks for or just walk away because they think the price is too high.

However, bargaining is a tradition that makes the bazaar seem even more foreign and fascinating to a Westerner.

Bazaars Have Delighted Foreigners for Centuries

The Westerner’s fascination with bazaars is not new. Bazaars have always delighted foreign visitors. In 1664, for example a young French traveler named (de Thevenot) saw a parade of craftsmen from the bazaar in Aleph, Syria. He wrote that it included shoemakers actually making sandals as they walked, craft smiths working gold, tailors, coffee sellers, butchers, and gardeners and barbers all demonstrating their crafts.

Such parades were common in many Middle Eastern cities at that time.

They were not simply entertainment. They also showed how important commerce and crafts were in the cities.

This importance was a result of the spread of Islam. Because the Muslims unified a huge area – and began to make and standardize their own coins – trade increased and so did crafts. In Cairo, for instance, the bazaar offered 450 different crafts and services.

What is the Same and What Has Changed since Then?

During this period, too the bazaars began to look the way they do today, with all the workers of one crafts grouped together: all the goldsmiths in one area, all the shoemakers in another, all the bakers in another, and so on.

These groupings certainly make sense.

The raw materials needed for each craft can be kept in one area. Buyers can compare price and quality very easily.

The job of the inspector also becomes much easier. Finally, because men in the same trade have a lot in common, they enjoy working close to each other.

The locations of the bazaars also make sense. Most of them are in the center of the city (or what used to be the center) so that people can get to them easily. Also, there are natural locations for certain trades. Bookshops and stationers, for example, are most often found around the important mosque is actually called the Mosque of the Bookshops because many shops selling books used to be around it.

Of course, many kinds of shops no longer exist in the bazaars. Many of the crafts themselves have disappeared.

Machine printing, for instance, stopped many of the crafts connected with book making in the middle Ages, especially pen making, papermaking, calligraphy and ink making. However, today’s bazaars seem to be as big and busy as they were in 1900, when there were 235 crafts in the Damascus bazaar.

The reason for this, of course, is the inventiveness and adaptability of the craftsmen of the Middle East. Today, a typewriter repair shop may stand in the place where a pen maker worked two hundred years ago. So bazaars are still the heart of city life. They are just as colorful, exciting and important today as they were centuries ago when the French traveler de Thevenot saw the craftsmen’s parade in Aleppo.

C. Now answer these questions about the passage:

1. Give three reasons why Westerners are fascinated by bazaars.

REHABILITATION

Hi, Ahmad I see you're having a party.

That's wonderful! What was wrong with him?

Yes. My uncle has just come out of hospital. So we're celebrating.

Im not sure, really. I think he had malaria.

Discussion

1. Where has Ahmad's uncle been? Where is he now?
2. Who works in a hospital, and what happens there?
3. What is malaria?
4. In what ways do sick people get better treatment nowadays than before?

Reading

How Can I Stay Healthy?

We asked 100 doctors for their tips on staying healthy.

Here are the top five tips and some research results with each tip.

1. Don't smoke:

Smoking harms you, your friends and your children. It also makes your clothes smell terrible!

If you smoke a lot, it will probably kill you. Research has shown that...

... smoking harms nearly every part of the body (National Cancer Institute, USA, Apr 2004). It kills 5 million people worldwide every year (WHO, 2003). If you live with a smoker, you will also smoke. There is a 24% rise in the chance of getting lung cancer (British Medical Journal, 1997).

2. Don't eat too many sweets:

We all need sugar, but if you eat lots of sweets, you will probably get bad teeth. You will probably get fat, too. Research has shown that ...

... if you are very fat, you will probably get a serious illness. Thirty different illnesses are linked to obesity (National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey, USA, 1988 – 1994). Another study shows that dark chocolate may prevent cancer and heart disease (Dutch National Institute of Public Health, 1997). But don't eat too much!

3. Don't lie in the sun :

We need sunlight to make Vitamin D, but too much sun is very dangerous. If you sunbathe regularly, you may get skin cancer. In Australia, 1,250 people die every year from skin cancer. Research has shown that ...

... skin cancer in Norway rose 350% for men and 440% for women between 1957 and 1984 (Norwegian Cancer Institute). People started to use sun cream in the 1960s and 70s. Professor Moan of the Institute says, 'People think that sun cream makes them safe. But it is not true.'

4. Take exercise every day:

You don't have to spend hours in the gym. If you walk for half an hour a day, you will help your body to work properly. You will also feel better. Research has shown that ...

... half an hour's exercise makes your heart stronger (American Heart Association). Research with mice has shown that exercise can also make memory better. Perhaps the results are true for humans, too. 'Just one month of exercise changed the brainpower of the mice,' said researcher Fred Gage (Journal of Neuroscience, 20th Sept, 2005).

Reading

5. Go to bed early twice a week:

Sleep is boring, but it is very important. If you get an average of eight hours a night, you will help your body work probably. Research has shown that ...

... if you are tired, you will not do something properly. In the USA, over 1,500 deaths happen on the roads each year because the driver fell asleep at the wheel (National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, USA, 1999).

Improvements in Health Care

Longer Lives

Most people would like to enjoy a long and healthy life. In many countries, there is more chance of doing that now than in the past. Until recently, many babies died at birth. For thousands of years, the life expectancy of new generations grew very little. Ninety years ago, a newborn baby could expect to live to be about forty-five.

Nowadays, it can expect to live to seventy. Some experts predict that, in the near future, that figure will be 120. Each generation now has the chance to live longer and healthier than before. What are the reasons for these changes? Will they continue?

The dictionary defines research as a careful (usually scientific) study to find out facts and information. Many changes in health care have happened because of research. Medical researchers ask such questions as: Why do some people live longer than others? What causes diseases? How can diseases such as cancer be cured? After asking the questions, they look for the answers. They may look closely at groups of people. For instance, they may try to find out what makes one group different from another.

Health and Personal Habits

Take the example of heart attacks. Researchers have noticed that people who live in Western countries suffer more from heart attacks than people in countries of the Far East.

In America, for example, heart disease has recently killed more people who were around forty or fifty years old than any other disease. In Japan, very few people of this age have heart problems. Researchers asked a number of questions. Researchers asked a number of questions, like: Why is this?

Are people made differently in different parts of the world? In order to look for the answer, they studied the habits of those groups which had fewer. After a lot of research, they found out that such things as smoking; diet and exercise affect people's hearts. People who smoke, eat fatty foods and do no exercise are more likely to have heart attacks than others. More Westerners than Japanese have these habits. The researchers also found that some Japanese who had become American citizens developed these habits and began to suffer from more heart attacks. Researchers have concluded that such personal habits affect human bodies in the same way all over the world. We can all learn from this. If we have habits that endanger our health, we can change them.

Modern Medicines and Vaccines

Research has also helped to produce better medicines. Before a medicine is available at a pharmacy, it is tested to make sure that it works and is safe. Tests are usually done on animals before the medicine is tried on humans. The public can buy some medicines over the counter. For others, a doctor's prescription is needed.

That means that it is important for the patient to take the medicine as the doctor has prescribed it. Too much might be dangerous. Too little might not work. In addition to drugs that cure diseases, there are now vaccines is a good example. Smallpox is a disease that used to kill hundreds of thousands of people all over the world. There was no cure for it. Today, it is a rare disease because most of the world's population has been vaccinated against it.

Operations in Hospital

Conditions have also changed greatly for patients in Hospitals. Take surgery, for example. A surgeon is a doctor who treats injuries or diseases by performing operations. He often has to cut into a patient's body. A hundred and fifty years ago, surgeons had to do this without any anesthetics. Patients were held down by several strong assistants. After the surgeon had started, the patient was not able to stop the operation. The patient remained awake all the time and felt all the pain. You can imagine how people feared operations in those days.

Nowadays it is not like that at all. Before an operation, a patient receives medication to relax him. Then he is either put to sleep or part of his body is anesthetized. During the operation, a specially trained anesthetist makes sure that he feels no pain and he has no danger.

The pain he feels after the operation can be controlled with drugs as well.

The Danger from Infection

In the old days, many patients died after an operation in hospital. The biggest danger was not the operation itself.

It was infection of the wound. This started either before or after the operation when harmful bacteria entered the patient's body. In fact, most patients that had operations in those days died from infection. But in 1869 antiseptics were discovered.

Antiseptics kill bacteria outside the body and protect it from infection. Deaths from operations were reduced to less than half. To reduce infection further, surgeons now wash their hands thoroughly. They put on special gloves and wear sterile clothes. They work with masks over their mouths and noses. In addition, the whole hospital staff keeps high standards of cleanliness and hygiene.

But the most important recent event in the fight against infection was the discovery of penicillin in 1928. It is called an antibiotic. Other have been discovered since then.

When someone has a bacterial infection and antibiotic is usually injected directly into the person's bloodstream. Antibiotics kill the bacteria there. Thus, they have saved the lives of many people.

The Future

So, a new-born baby will enjoy better health care than in the old days. First, he is born into the clean environment of a hospital. Then he is vaccinated against a number of diseases that possibly killed his ancestors. After that, he is able to choose a life-style that keeps him healthy. Later, if he gets sick, there is most probably some medicine to cure his illness. In this way, his chances of enjoying a long and healthy life are better than ever before.
